HADLEY TELLS HOW FRAUD IN VOTING HELPED STONE OUT

Governor Gives "Bill of Particulars" Demanded by U. S. Senator.

WARD VOTE IS CITED

Detail of Vote in St. Louis Wards and Precincts Cited by Executive.

42 PRECINCTS SET OUT

Declared to Have Given Toga Candidate More Than Party Total Vote.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 5.—Gov. Hadley added another chapter to his controversy with Senator Stone when he charged, in a prepared statement given out today, that Stone was the beneficiary of gross frauds committed in the senatorial primary in St. Louis and in several counties of the State, last fall.

When the Governor charged fraud in the senatorial primary in his speech delivered at Holden, Stone challenged him to give a bill of particulars. The Governor has endeavored to do this in the statement.

"The tough wards in St. Louis gave Stone his largest majorities," said the Governor. "They way the vote was handled in these wards is evidenced by a few examples.

"The Third gave Stone 1207, Folk 141; the Fourth gave Stone 1263, Folk 173; the Fifth gave Stone 901, Folk 184; the Sixteenth gave Stone 1729, Folk 361.

Stone Runs Ahead of Democrats.

"While these returns on their face suggest fraud and unfairness, a closer analysis of the votes emphasizes the correctness of this conclusion. As a result of the contest on Lieutenant-Governor, all of the votes in the city of St. Louis were recounted by the Legislative Committee, assisted by the Election Commissioners of St. Louis.

"I have been informed by the members of this legislative committee and those who assisted them in counting of those votes that in precinct after precinct, votes were counted for Stone which had been cast for other candidates; that votes had been cast for him that had not been cast at all and votes were cast for him in excess of all the Democratic ballots found in the box.

"One of the members of the Board of Election Commissioners was quoted as saying that more than 10,000 votes dishonestly had been counted for Senator Stone in St. Louis, and a member of this board has, to my personal knowledge, stated that he knew that if the votes had been counted there as they were cast, there would have been as large a majority against Senator Stone as was returned in his favor.

Statute Falls Short.

"So manifest was the fraud that characterized the counting and return of the votes for United States Senator that the Circuit Attorney started a grand jury investigation. But before he had proceeded far, it was discovered that the Legislature had considerately failed to make it a criminal offense to cast or to count dishonestly the votes in this primary.

"The Circuit Attorney was quoted

SISTERS AND MAN WHO, DIVORCED BY ONE, MARRIED THE OTHER

MARRIES SISTER OF WOMAN WHO HAD DIVORCED HIM

Daniel Cawein's and Paulina Spellman's Secret Is Out After Two Weeks.

The fact was divulged Saturday that Daniel Cawein, who was divorced by Mrs. Lottie Cawein last June, was secretly married in Belleville on Jan. 25 to the first Mrs. Cawein's sister, who was Miss Paulina Spellman.

The ceremony was performed by Justice Kreitman, and Miss Spellman's name was entered in the stub in the license clerk's book as "Miss Pearl Paulina." Cawein stated that he was from Chicago. The couple are living at 3541 Arkansas avenue.

"I was Dan's housekeeper and helpmeet for 10 years," said Mrs. Lottie Cawein with emotion when informed of her former husband's marriage to her sister.

"Men don't want wives nowadays who drudge and help build up their homes," continued Mrs. Cawein. "The kind they desire are those who strut about the streets, wear fine clothes and never do a stroke of work.

"But I slaved from dawn to midnight to help my husband make a fortune. On Sundays I always put the studs in his shirt and laid out his ties to his hand. At night his slippers were warmed and placed beside his chair. I started him in business with $1200 of my own money. In return, he told me he was 'a natural born sport,' and that he'd like another wife for a change."

The first Mrs. Cawein obtained a divorce in Judge Williams' court on June 25, 1909. Seven months later to a day, Cawein and Miss Spellman were married by Justice Kreitman at Belleville. The Illinois law forbids the remarriage of a divorced person within a year after the decree is granted and license clerks in that State usually ask of applicants for marriage permits whether either of them has been divorced within the preceding year.

Cawein, who had been separated from his wife nearly four years, sued for divorce. Mrs. Cawein filed a cross-bill, charging that a "certain blonde" was responsible for their marital disruption. The decree was given to her, with the custody of the two children, Ethel, 10 years old, and Ralph, 7. She was awarded $25 a month alimony.

"I have learned that just before Dan filed his divorce petition he made a present of a lot at 3541 Arkansas avenue to my sister," says Mrs. Cawein. "Then, during the trial, workmen were busy erecting the handsome cottage, with a buff brick front, in which they are now living."

The Caweins were married in September, 1896, he being six years her junior. Cawein once was a professional ballplayer. With her dowry, she started a grocery business for him at 3348 Laclede avenue. In ten years they saved $15,000, she says.

"I was so careful not to waste a cent," she relates, "that every night after the store was closed I would examine the fruit unsold. If I thought any of it might spoil, I would work till midnight making it into pies, preserves and jellies, which I would sell."

"I am now keeping boarders to support the children and myself. During our separation Dan never gave me a penny. He did, however, repay me the $1200 I loaned him."

BURGLAR FORGETS ALL HIS GALLANTRY IN PRESENCE OF FRESHLY BAKED LEMON PIE

A New English Song.

O, father, dear father, come home with me now.
They've put gentle mother in jail;
For o'er the Prime Minister's criminal brow
She deftly inverted a pail;
Then scattered some cabinet members in flight
With ancient tomatoes, undressed,
And handed a bishop a good woman's right
About where his pants meet his vest.
They've jugged her; but don't feel disgraced,
Dad, I pray;
It took six policemen to lead me away.
—Life.

While a burglar, ransacking bureau drawers with his right hand, held a long knife near Miss Ada Lang's throat with his left, frightening her so that she could not move, she found voice to beg of him:

"Don't open that drawer. My dead father's clothes are there."

And the burglar didn't.

"My father's clothes were there," said Miss Lang Saturday, in describing her adventure to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "But what I didn't mention to the burglar was that there was also some money in that drawer.

"I suppose it was very gallant of him to let that drawer alone at my request, but I could appreciate it more if he hadn't taken my diamond ring and some $25 from a couple of other places, and especially if he hadn't carried off the whole lemon pie that I had just baked for dinner.

"And the worst of all was that my brother Arthur fell down the steps and broke his ankle when he started to chase the burglar, and now he will be laid up for several weeks."

SERVANT'S CHILD TAKEN BY WOMAN TO SAVE FAMILY

Mother of Infant Changes Her Mind and Resolves to Regain It.

EXHIBITED AT HOME

Foster Mother Deceived Even Nearest Neighbors as to Parentage.

To conceal from her neighbors a newly found skeleton in the family closet, Mrs. Samuel A. Taylor of Belleville arranged to take and to treat as her own the expected child of her household servant, Mary Bowman. To aid in the deception of the neighbors, Mrs. Taylor remained indoors for several weeks and recently caused a woman nurse to pay several visits to her house. She sent the housemaid away, and when the child was born in a St. Louis hospital, she smuggled it into her home and exhibited it as her own.

Her effort came to naught Saturday, when her husband was arraigned on charges brought by the girl, who had changed her mind about parting from her child. Besides the warrant which was served on Taylor, there is a second warrant, which has not been served, in which Taylor and his wife are charged with kidnaping the infant.

The strange arrangement by which the wife sought to spare the husband, and to keep the tongue of scandal from their home, was described to a Post-Dispatch reporter by Taylor, after he had obtained a continuance in Magistrate Evans' court at Belleville.

"Mary Bowman came to our home a year ago," he said. "Early in this winter my wife suspected that all was not right, and questioned Mary.

What Mary told her about me she would not believe until I myself admitted it to her.

Woman Devises Plan.

"Then, instead of reproaching me, she said we must handle this matter in such a manner as not to cause others to talk about us. She said Mary must go away, and that when the child was born it must be passed as our own.

"Mary went to a hospital in St. Louis, and early in January the baby, a boy, was born there. As soon as it was able to be removed, she caused it to be brought to our house, and it was announced in the neighborhood that a child had been born to my wife and me. A woman nurse helped by backing up my wife's story, and apparently none of the neighbors suspected anything wrong."

Mary Bowman was not in court Saturday, and it could not be learned what influenced her to discard the agreement which Taylor says she made with him and his wife.

The girl went to Chief of Police Nebgen of Belleville Friday and outlined her charges against the Taylors. It was decided to arrest the husband first, and to dissuade the girl, if possible, from prosecuting Mrs. Taylor on the kidnaping charge.

The Taylors have no children of their own. Mary Bowman is 19 years old.

JUDGE DEFENDS INJUNCTIONS TO STOP LID RAIDS

Moses N. Sale of Circuit Court Replies to Criticism by Grand Jury.

EXPLAINS HIS ACTS

Would Rather See City Dotted With Clubs Than Give Police Full Authority.

Defending injunctions issued to the Circuit Court to restrain the police from raiding lid clubs, Judge Moses N. Sale, who has issued two lid-club injunctions replied Saturday to criticism in the grand jury's report to the issuance of such injunctions by saying he would rather see St. Louis dotted with lid clubs, committing misdemeanors every hour, than to give the Chief of Police full authority to raid them.

Judge Sale's Reply.

Judge Sale said, in a dictated statement:

"Criticising the judges is cheap, but effects nothing and only demonstrates anew that the editor of the reports of the grand jury should be shorn of some of the power which he customarily and without warrant of law exercises. Personally and for the sake of law and order, I would father a thousand-fold see our beloved city dotted with lid-lifting clubs committing misdemeanors every hour of the day than to have a law enacted or have a law so construed that the Chief of Police with or without consultation with the Circuit Attorney could determine for himself without a trial or semblance of a trial that a person or any number of persons have committed a crime and after so determining proceed to punish such person or persons and all without hearing the person or persons so punished or their witnesses. For my part I prefer a free govenment with all its imperfections to a despotism that punishes (even the guilty) without a hearing."

Charters Granted by Courts.

Judge Sale declared that the so-called lid clubs have been granted charters by the properly constituted authorities—the courts. They have, he said, the same title to their charter that the Mercantile Club, the St. Louis Club and the University Club have.

"In fact," he said, "these charters emanate from the identical source from which every church in St. Louis that is incorporated gets its charter."

Before granting a charter to a club Judge Sale stated that the Court should be thoroughly well satisfied by investigation that the purposes of the organization are within the letter and the spirit of the law. He defied anyone to point out where a lid-lifting club obtained its charter through him.

Sworn to Enforce Law.

"So on that score," he said, "I plead 'not guilty.' But on the score of issuing injunctions, plead 'guilty,' because I am sworn under the Constitution of this State to enforce the laws, and all charters granted by legal authority look alike to me.

Our police (I include the Chief of Police and the Circuit Attorney) have no more right to decide in their chambers that an individual or set of individuals are conducting an illegal business, and then having satisfied themselves that the business so conducted is illegal, to make what is called a 'raid' on that business, than they would have to determine that the worship of God at any given church in town was illegal, and thereupon make a raid upon such church."

What Records Reveal.

A search of the records of the Circuit Court Saturday revealed that six injunctions have been granted by Circuit Judges against the police raiding alleged lid clubs. Two were by Judge Sale, two by Judge Hitchcock, one by Judge Allen and one by Judge M. D. Reynolds, who has since left the bench.

Judge Allen was asked by a Post-Dispatch reporter for a statement in regard to the grand jury's report. He said he had not read it and when told of its contents declined to discuss it. "It is not my policy to discuss my acts on the bench off the bench," he said. Judge Allen granted the injunction in the case of the Brewery Workers' Association.

Limited Injunctions.

Judge Hitchcock also refused to say anything about the grand jury's report. "It is true," he said, "that I issued injunctions in the cases of the Franklin Avenue Merchants' Association and the St. Louis Quoit and Gymnastic Club, but I will not discuss my judicial acts. I suggest that you read the decrees in those cases. The records speak for themselves, and if they do not suit you just give them fits."

The injunctions in both cases granted by Judge Hitchcock are limited, merely enjoining the police from interfering with the rights of club members, but not prohibiting the police from going on the club premises in the discharge of their official duties.

HEIRESS WHO RETURNED FROM EUROPE AND CONTRACTED TYPHOID

JUDGE DISSOLVES ONE INJUNCTION IN SWOPE CASE

Action Is Taken to Leave Field Clear for Decision in Another Court.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 5.—Attorneys resumed their sparring this forenoon for advantage in the taking of depositions in the suits which have been brought by Dr. B. Clarke Hyde in connection with the investigation into the deaths of Col. Thomas H. Swope and Chrisman Swope.

The first move was made by the attorneys of Mr. Hyde, who filed an application in Judge Powell's court at Independence for an injunction restraining all of the defendants from taking depositions. Judge Powell declined to take action on the application until after the hearing set for 11 o'clock in Judge Brumback's court here on the restraining orders issued by Judge Brumback Thursday.

At this hearing it was agreed by all the attorneys that Judge Powell had superior jurisdiction by reason of the original suits having been filed in his court.

Action Is Postponed.

Judge Brumback therefore dissolved the restraining orders he issued Thursday and withdrew. Hyde's attorneys requested action on their application for an injunction filed this morning at Independence.

Judge Powell postponed the hearing to 2 o'clock on the promise of all the lawyers that they would make no move before that hour.

The object of the maneuvering is, on the part of the defendants, to get the deposition of Hyde, and on the part of the plaintiff to prevent that being done.

At the hearing this afternoon it will probably develop that both the attorneys for Hyde and those for John G. Paxton have lost their right to proceed with the taking of depositions under their old orders, because of their failure to adjourn from day to day and that the notices filed yesterday by John F. Green for the Pulitzer Publishing Co. is the only one in force.

The Hyde lawyers included the Pulitzer Publishing Co. in the application they filed this morning in an attempt to prevent Mr. Green from taking depositions Monday.

Coroner Zwart is completing his arrangements for the beginning of the inquest into the death of Col. Swope at Independence Monday at 10 o'clock. It will be held at the Courthouse.

Dr. Hektoen of Chicago and members of the Swope family and the nurses who attended Col. Swope and Chrisman Swope will be witnesses. It is not certain whether Dr. Hyde will testify.

SHE FINDS CENSUS SUM SOLVING JUST LIKE SCHOOLDAYS

When Mrs. Hanna M. J. Farrington Breezes in the 81 "Boys" All Quit Work.

"Well I'm here to answer any questions you want to put, so start in," announced Mrs. Hanna M. J. Farrington Saturday as she burst into the room in the old Federal Building at Third and Olive streets, where the examinations for one division of enumerators of the census were being held.

Eighty-one applicants dropped their pens and looked up at the speaker. Things had been pretty dull all morning. Supervisor Baker had stated there were more than 100 negroes to take the examination, but none of them had put in an appearance. Baker subsequently explained that the negroes were to have a special examination all to themselves in the afternoon.

But there was nothing worrying Mrs. Farrington. As Deputy Supervisor A. A. Hapke examined her card of admission she beamed kindly on the class of 81 and launched forth again.

"How this does remind me of old days," she said. "All those boys there doing their sums. You know I'd been an Illinois school teacher for 25 years when I retired 15 years ago to become the proprietor of The Golden Rule Hotel at 801 Market street.

Abe Was Some Skinner.

"Arithmetic? Why, arithmetic was my science. I could add up a sum or count the strokes of a rod faster than Abe Powers could skin a calf. And Abe was some skinner. Never paid a cent of school dues in his life.

"Any experience as a census taker? Say, I used to walk seven miles to school every day. Start out from David Rankin's place on the Rock road and hit up through Caseyville to Bull Frog Station. That's where old No. 5 was and it was still there the last time I was. Census? I used to take the census of the school every day by the finger marks on the blue-black primer. That was the only book we had in the school for a time and everybody put his or her mark on it when I passed down the line, so that each could have an individual look at the fountain of knowledge.

"What—but no, I'm not going to ask any questions. I came down here just to answer questions. But when I take this position I hope they'll put me away out in the country where I can walk. You know, I used to take the census for the school district. In my days the district was not what you could call small. It would make some number of these census precincts. Schools were sparse in those days, mode sparse, perhaps, in Madison County than elsewhere. So besides the children of my own county I had children from Madison County.

CONNORS SWEARS LALLY HAD PLAN TO GET REVENGE

Former Sergeant Makes Affidavit Regarding Talk on Police Matters.

FIRST SEEN AT HOME

He Rejected Proposition Which Was Renewed at Downtown Meeting.

TALE OF AN UMBRELLA

It Was Said to Have Been Bought as a Gift for Lieut. Donegan.

An affidavit of former Sergt. John Connors, charging that John J. Lally, holder of Police Relief Fund I O U's, tried to induce Connors to join him in a plot to "get even" with high police officials, and to get back on the force, was produced by Lieut. Tom Donegan, one of the men whose names are signed to the slips.

Donegan, with all the others accused by Lally, has declared that the I O U's are spurious. John E. Riedy, former secretary of the Police Relief Association, to whom they were said to have been originally given, confirmed this statement in his testimony before the Police Board a few days ago. Donegan said Saturday that the affidavit would in his opinion, be sufficient to overthrow Lally's charges.

Lieut. Donegan said the affidavit, which he had at the Magnolia Avenue Station, would be presented to the Police Board in case any charge was preferred in connection with the I O U's.

Affidavit Is Voluntary.

"Connors came to me voluntarily and offered to make the affidavit," said Lieut. Donegan to a Post-Dispatch reporter at the Magnolia Avenue Station Saturday.

"I had not seen him since he was dismissed from the force in 1907. He said he had read about the I O U charges, and that he wanted to see a square deal and that he could show what former Sergt. Lally had been up to.

"Then Connors told how Lally had gone to his home and tried to induce him to go into a plan to get even and get back in the department.

"He offered to make affidavit to what had happened, and I arranged to have him do so.

"The matter of the umbrella, which Connors says Lally mentioned to him at their second meeting, is one that Lally has also tried to bring up with me.

Never Got the Umbrella.

"No umbrella of the sort was ever given to me, and Lieut. Nolte and Owen McNamee, whom Lahy named as having been in with him and Connors in its purchase, have told me they never heard of the matter before.

"I got a letter from Lally two months ago, which the board now has, stating that he had found 'some old papers,' and among them one showing that he was out $10 on the purchase of a gold-handled gift umbrella for me and mentioning Connors, McNamee and Nolte. He wrote that the umbrella had been bought to replace one I had left in a barroom while out doing some work for the association. I knew nothing of the sort had happened, so far as I was concerned, and when I found that McNamee and Nolte knew nothing about it, I paid no more attention to Lally's letter.

"I opposed the payment of $258 to Lally from the Relief Association's treasury, because I believed the money he claimed had already been paid to him. I have no doubt that I gave him serious offense by doing so."

Donegan said Connors, who says in the affidavit that Lally told of a fruitless visit to "Jep," said in talking with him that he meant Jeptha D. Howe, former Republican boss. Howe was not in the city Saturday and could not be reached to ascertain whether he remembered such a call by Lally.

The affidavit in full is as follows:

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 3, 1910.

Lieut. Thomas Donegan, Seventh Police District: Dear sir—

In reference to the statement of Mr. John J. Lally, formerly a sergeant of police.

One day last summer, I think it was in June, I heard a rap at the door of the lower flat. Going out upon the porch I saw Lally. I asked him what he wanted. He said he was from the gas company and wanted to know if I was using gas. I told him yes, both illuminating and fuel. He wanted to know if it was the same downstairs, and I said "Yes." He then beckoned to me to come down. I went into the yard and he asked me what I was doing and added that he had been wanting to see me for some time. After I told him he said:

"You know there is a new bunch at the head of the Police Department, and if you want to get even with some of those ducks on the force that stuck it into you, if you will stick, we can get in good."

I turned to him and said:

"John, I don't want to get in good. Nor I don't want any political jobs of any description. I would not have

TERMINAL OFFERS BILLS VALIDATING MAYORS' PERMITS

Plays Trump in Fight for Grants of Streets in Ranken Tract.

WOULD FORCE COUNCIL

Assumes Role of Shippers' Friend in Effort to Hold Switch Connections.

What friends of the Terminal Railroad Association have for several days hinted would be a major trump in its legislative game for a grant of streets and alleys in the Ranken tract has appeared at last in the form of bills for the validation of mayors' permits under which the company has laid 79 tracks in the Mill Creek Valley, between Twenty-first street and Compton avenue, and switch connections between its rails and the plants of 17 industrial concerns.

These bills, it was predicted, would compel the Council either to recognize the Terminal Association's demand for more facilities, or put Councilmen in the position of hampering individuals and corporations that require switches. If the Council legalizes permits granted for the benefit of these third parties, while at the same time the development of the Ranken tract is prevented, Speaker Rombauer and other advocates of the Terminal declare, Councilmen will be forced into an inconsistent and embarrassing attitude.

McChesney's Letter.

In a letter which President McChesney of the Terminal Association wrote to Speaker Rombauer, he says that the city, through the police court, "is now prosecuting the Terminal Association for the manifest purpose of forcing the removal of these tracks," and continues:

To remove these tracks, before any new facilities are authorized, would seriously cripple our capacity to handle both passenger and freight cars, thereby precipitating a condition of chaos in the Mill Creek Valley.

The Terminal Association has sought to have these tracks authorized by ordinance, but the Municipal Assembly has refused its sanction. If the company were obliged to tear up the industrial tracks, the industries affected would suffer very great damage in loss of business.

We believe that great manufacturing centers are built up by bettering the rail facilities rather than by destroying them, and there can be no doubt that the municipal government shares this opinion.

Refuses to Pass Ordinance.

In relating how the Council has thus far refused to pass an ordinance to validate 27 tracks laid under a permit issued by Mayor Kreismann last June, Mr. McChesney says that his bill was introduced two days after the Mayor's permission was obtained.

This statement, the records show, is erroneous. The permit had been issued five days before the fact became generally known. It was a week later that Councilman Crunden presented the bill in the Council.

In pursuance of its advertising campaign to influence public sentiment in favor of its bills, the Terminal Association caused to be printed in Saturday newspapers the memorial presented Wednesday to the Railroads Committee of the House of Delegates on behalf of shippers by Murray Carleton, George W. Simmons, Edward Devoy, Charles A. Stix, C. D. Gregg, Edward A. Flesh and George H. Allen. The memorial was prepared after the shippers had held several meetings. It urges th passage of the Terminal bills. The advertisement fills half a page in the newspapers.

Schutz Not Perturbed.

Councilman Schutz is not perturbed by the introduction of the 17 bills in the House of Delegates.

"I shall be glad to vote for ordinances to legalize the permits under which merchants and manufacturers have connected their establishments with the railroads," he said to a Post-Dispatch reporter Saturday.

"I regard the presentation of these bills as a response to the request which the Council last week sent to Mayor Kreismann. I am not fighting against shippers, but in their interest, when I demand that the Terminal Association abolish the 'arbitraries' as a prerequisite condition of any grant from the city.

"Playing the role of the shippers' friend will not deceive many persons. The shippers themselves, through their representatives on the Terminals Commission, have convicted the Terminal Association of unfairness and extortion. City officials have concurred in that verdict, as has also the Terminal by removing the arbitraries beyond the 100-mile radius. It won't do now for the Terminal Association to try to use these arbitraries in its own behalf.

Rombauer Fathers Bills.

Among the bills which Mr. Rombauer has fathered in the House of Delegates at the instance of President McChesney of the Terminal Association, is one to legalize a permit given to the Buck Lumber and Range Co. President J. W. McCleave of the Buck company last Tuesday at a public hearing on the Terminal's bill, characterized the prosecution of the association in the Clark Avenue Police Court "a travesty and a disgrace."

That the Council is ready to validate permits issued in behalf of merchants and manufacturers is indicated by its prompt passage of two such bills Friday. One of these authorized the Boeckeler Lumber Co. to operate two tracks and the Cohen-Schwartz Iron Co to operate tracks in Hall street in North St. Louis. These bills have gone to the House of Delegates.

Attorney Sam P. McChesney, who charged in a speech to a jury in the Clark Avenue Police Court, that the Terminal Association's bills to legalize Mayors' permits failed to pass the Municipal Assembly in 1902 because they were not "greased" told a Post-Dispatch reporter Saturday that he knew of no specific demand for a bribe having been made upon the Terminal or any of its officers.

Attorney McChesney is a son of William S. McChesney Jr., president of the Terminal Association. In his speech in defense of the Terminal, in one of the suits for illegal occupancy of the streets under mayors' permits, McChesney said Friday, the bills would have been passed if the Terminal had been dishonest enough to "grease" them.

"The public generally is familiar with conditions prevailing in the Municipal Assembly at that time," said McChesney. "A great many members of the Assembly were under indictment, or were frequent witnesses before the grand juries that were investigating bribery.

"My statement to the jury was based on general conditions prevailing then, which made it impossible to get legislation without paying for it. I do not know that any demand was made upon my father, or any one else in official position with the Terminal Association. I do not think my father knows of any.

"In making my speech I assumed that members of the jury were familiar with conditions in the Municipal Assembly at the time we attempted to legalize these permits by ordinance. Getting legislation about that time was principally a matter of barter, and, of course, as the Terminal Association did not have anything to offer other than the merit of its bills, they failed to pass.

He then said, "Well, do you ever get downtown?" I said "Yes, occasionally, usually Friday or Thursday afternoon." He then said, "I will meet you at Eighth and Olive some time. Think the matter over." I left him and went upstairs.

A few weeks later I ran into him at Eighth and Olive. I said "Hello Jack, are you not with the gas company any more?" He said, "No, I am with the McKinley system in East St. Louis." I said, "How are you getting along?" He said, "I was over to see Jep and Jep turned me out of his office and would not speak to me."

He then said, "Don't you remember when you and I and Nolte were on that committee and we went down town and bought Donegan an umbrella for $10 or $25, I am not sure which?" I said, "No, I don't remember, and no such thing ever occurred," wheeling around and leaving him.

You can see if it is a fact that he was working for the gas company when he called at my house as he had a memorandum book or pad and also wore a Laclede Gas Co. badge. JOHN J. CONNORS.

My commission expires July 26, 1910.

The Police Board is still holding the Lally I O U's, and proof of their genuineness, it is believed, would cause the discharge of the six men now in the department whose names appear on them. Up to the present time the proof has tended in the other direction. In no case, it is believed, could any further action than dismissal be taken and it is doubted whether the claims of the six men to retirement pensions from the relief fund could be denied.

A handwriting expert, to be selected by Inspector McDonnell and Assistant City Counselor Baird, will examine the I O U's, which are declared forgeries by the police officials and former members of the department whose names are attached to them.

McDonnell said Saturday that the expert had not yet been selected.

At the Police Board's executive session Friday, Chief Creecy was present, but retired before the relief fund matter was considered. A two hours' conference between President Laird and Mayor Kreismann, at the Mayor's home, followed the meeting.

A number of the boys over whom Mrs. Farrington waved her hand as she made this remark wore bald heads. But they were rather small pumpkins when compared to the large personality of Mrs. Farrington.

"I do hope this thing's on the square and that I get a position," she continued. "You see, I'd just love that work. If there's anything I delight in it's arithmetic and conversation. And a school teacher could get the information. They've got such a way of teasing things out of people.

"I guess I'm capable, all right. My parents died when I was 15 years old and left me the care of a little sister and two little brothers. I made school teachers out of everyone of them. Yes, sir, I did. I brought them up until they had their certificates and then turned them loose on the State; just like an old bird does its birdlings.

DIES OF EXERTION IN KEEPING HIS PATIENT UNDER KNIFE

California Surgeon Noted for Spartan Methods of Raising Children.

LONG BEACH, Feb. 5.—The strain of supporting a 200-pound patient who had rolled off the operating table, burst a blood vessel in Dr. William Lawrence Woodruff's lungs yesterday, and the surgeon died shortly afterward.

Dr. Woodruff's views on the simple life and Spartan methods of rearing children had made his name known throughout the country. He first practiced his theories on his infant children, who thrived on coarse foods and ice baths and the wearing of only a single garment even in the coldest weather.

HEROIC REMEDY FOR CORPULENCY

Mother Wants Artistic Daughter Sent to a Sanitarium.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Miss Gerda Dallidra, an English girl whose bugbear in life is corpulency, has been in the habit of taking alternate daily doses of nine bottles of citrate of magnesia and thirty grains of calomel to keep thin, according to the testimony of her mother in the Supreme Court. Mrs. Dallidra wants her daughter committed to a sanitarium. The court reserved decision.

Miss Dallidra has a tendency toward art and maintains a studio up town. She enjoys an income from a trust fund of $155,000.

TIEDEMANN FUNERAL ON SUNDAY

Former Commission Man Will Be Buried in O'Fallon, Ill.

The funeral of Frederick Tiedeman, a former member of the Merchants' Exchange, who died of pneumonia, will be conducted Sunday afternoon at O'Fallon, Ill. He died at his home, 3518A Humphrey street.

Mr. Tiedeman was 80 years old and was born in Bremervoeder, Hanover, Germany. He lived in Mexico 17 years, and was engaged in the milling business in Jackson, Mo., in 1882. In 1900 he came to St. Louis and was in the commission business. He died Friday. His widow and two children, John E. and Miss Lilly Tiedeman, surviving him.

WILL TRY MT. M'KINLEY AGAIN

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Belmore H. Browne of the Explorers' Club, who accompanied Dr. Frederick A. Cook in his ascent of Mt. McKinley, has announced that an addition to the summit will start in the spring. The expedition will approach the mountain from the north by motor boat, proceeding up Cook inlet and the rivers to the interior within 30 miles of Mount McKinley.

EXPRESS COMPANIES PLAN TO EXTEND FREE DELIVERY ZONE

Attorney Denies, However, That Railroad Commissioner Has Authority to Order Free Delivery.

The railroad express companies which have a limited free delivery zone in St. Louis are planning the widening of the zone, according to a statement by James L. Minnis, attorney for the companies.

Mr. Minnis denies the Missouri Railroad and Warehouse Commission has authority to enforce any order regarding the free delivery of express packages. The commission recently conducted an investigation of complaints of extra charges for delivery outside the arbitrary zone.

"I think the companies will expand their free zone in St. Louis, where the business is constantly increasing," said Mr. Minnis. "I feel confident that should the business in Baden demand a wagon every day, the companies would abolish the arbitrary there."

GAYLEY DIVORCE IS CLIMAX TO OLD ST. LOUIS ROMANCE

Woman Sued by Steel Official Married Him When He Was Struggling Chemist

SHE REFUSES TO TALK

Remains Silent in Face of Charges Made by Husband Living at Reno, Nev.

Mrs. James H. Gayley, who, as Miss Julia Thurston Gardiner, was a belle in St. Louis in the early '80s, refused, at her home in New York, Saturday, to discuss the divorce action brought in Reno, Nev., by her husband, who is vice-president of the United States Steel Corporation. He is the man whose invention made for Andrew Carnegie many of his millions.

Gayley now has millions of his own, the beginning of which was from a block of steel stock given him by Carnegie as a reward for the inventions which revolutionized the making of steel.

When he married Miss Gardiner he was a chemist, for whom a brilliant future was predicted, but who then had very little money. Only a short time before he had become identified with the Carnegie interests.

The wedding was one of the notable events of St. Louis. The bride was the daughter of Col. Curtiss Gardiner, general superintendent of the Hartford Steam Boiler Inspection and Insurance Co. The Gardiner home was at 2908 Dayton street.

The charming Miss Gardiner had been wooed by Gayley shortly after he came to St. Louis in 1879. He remained here nearly two years, when he was called to Pennsylvania by Carnegie.

Went to Reno Quietly.

He returned to St. Louis, Feb. 21, 1884 and was married to Miss Gardiner. They went East to live and have made their home in Pittsburg and New York since that time, except for a part of each year which they spent in Italy. Gayley rapidly became wealthy after leaving St. Louis. His friends describe him as a studious man.

Daughter Is a Countess.

The divorce petition is brief and gives no hint of the cause of the separation. It merely recites the dates of the marriage, and charges that the wife deserted Gayley July 1, 1908, and has repeatedly refused to live with him since, although he has frequently requested her to return.

The Gayleys have three children. One, Miss Mary Thurston Gayley, was married in Rome in 1908 to Count Giulio Senni. The two other children, Agnes and Florence, are with their mother, who now resides at 20 Washington square, north, New York.

Mrs. Gayley refused to see reporters, and over the telephone said she had no statement to make.

Had Many Suitors.

Mrs. Gayley is remembered by those who were members of society of a quarter of a century ago as a very charming young woman, who had many suitors. She accepted Gayley, to the surprise of many of her friends. Gayley is remembered well by William M. Chauvenet, mining engineer at 620 Chestnut street, whom he succeeded as chemist for the Missouri Furnace Co.

"Gayley was a remarkably bright young man," said Mr. Chauvenet, Saturday. "He came to St. Louis fresh from college. While he held the position of chemist for the Missouri Furnace Co., he turned much of that work over to his assistant. He used to go out and watch the blast furnaces.

Increased Furnace Output.

"He came here in 1879 and I think remained until about the end of 1880. Soon after he went to Pennsylvania with the Carnegie company he made a name for himself, and was given a good block of stock by Mr. Carnegie in recognition of his services, which had enabled Carnegie to increase his profits nearly five times.

MOTHER AND SON KILL SELVES

Boy Takes His Life and Parent Follows.

PARIS, Feb. 5.—Mme. Elizabeth Effron, for 30 years a prominent Russian revolutionist, hanged herself today upon the discovery that her 14-year-old son had killed himself after being reprimanded in school.

Mme. Effron was the daughter of the former Governor-General of Moscow, M. Durnovo.

DIVORCES IN FAMILIES OF STEEL MILLIONAIRES

WILLIAM B. LEEDS, "tinplate king," divorced his life and married Mrs. Nonnie Stewart Worthington of Cleveland.

ALICE THAW, granddaughter of William Thaw, one of the steel millionaires, caused annulment of marriage with the Earl of Yarmouth, Feb. 5, 1908. She charged his manner of living prevented her from taking her proper place in society.

LAWRENCE C. PHIPPS got a divorce in Denver in 1904 on grounds that his wife deserted him.

PEANUTS HAVE NEARLY TWICE FOOD VALUE OF A BEEFSTEAK

Expert Gives Several Substitutes and Tells How Much of Each Is Required.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 5.—Apropos of the meat boycott, Prof. M. F. Jafa, head of the State Laboratory at the University of California and State Pure Food Expert, has compiled a table, showing how much must be eaten of other foods to get the fat and proteid values found in a pound of beefsteak. His table gives you your choice of these:

Two and one-half quarts of skimmed milk.

One and one-fifth pounds of old-fashioned oatmeal.

Six-sevenths of a pound of full cream cheese.

One pound of cottage cheese.

Ten or twelve eggs.

Three-fifths of a pound of shelled peanuts.

One pound of shelled almonds.

A feature in favor of these articles as a diet, according to the professor, is that they do not tend to induce rheumatism, often a bad after-effect of too much meat.

CARPENTER SITS ON END OF BEAM AND SAWS IT IN TWO

"Sure Them Was Me Orders," He Explains After Falling Six Stories.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Patrick Diskin, a carpenter who recently came to New York from the West, is in the Lebanon Hospital because he deliberately sawed off the end of a log on which he was seated six stories above the ground. There is something surprising in the fact that Diskin is apparently not seriously injured.

Diskin had been ordered to saw off the end of the log, which projected from a window over the street. He went up, got out on the end of the beam and carefully sawed it in two between himself and the window. He and the end of the log fell together to the pavement. Neither was hurt much. The beam was a little bruised on one corner and Patrick was unconscious and had two scalp wounds.

When asked today why he had done such a thing, Diskin replied in some heat, "Sure them was me orders."

SCHOOL PRINCIPAL WHIPS 100 BOYS IN 2 HOURS 30 MINUTES

Would Have Made It 101, but Husky 17-Year-Old Floors the Master.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 5.—Principal William D. Hathaway of this city is believed to be the champion boy trouncer of the world. Here is his record:

Boys trounced, 100; boys untrounced, 1; time consumed, two hours and 30 minutes. Switches worn out, 22.

All that prevented the principal from having a clear score was that when he reached the 101st subject he was so "tuckered out" that the subject, a husky 17-year-old youth in a fit of playfulness threw the principal gently on the floor and sat upon him.

Authorities on the manly art of boy trouncing, however, are not inclined to count this against the principal. This record is the result of breaking the principal's order to refrain from snowballing.

DEATH OF RUTHERFORD UNDER WHEELS IS CALLED ACCIDENT

Coroner's Jury Decides That He Did Not Purposely Let Car Run Over Him.

A verdict that the death of Cody L. Rutherford, who was killed by a Cherokee car on the Twelfth street viaduct Friday, was the result of an accident and not suicide, was returned by the Coroner's jury Saturday.

The moterman, Henry Runge, testified that Rutherford was lying in the street with his head on the rail when he first saw him, and that he was unable to stop the car before striking him.

Deputy Coroner Fath stated he had received a statement from a friend of Rutherford that Rutherford was not intoxicated a few minutes before his death and that he was in his usual jovial state of mind.

Rutherford was engaged to be married to Miss Minnie Rustemeyer of 814 North Fourteenth street.

WHO'LL FIND "TOPSY" AND STAY LITTLE GIRL'S TEARS FOR HER MISSING TERRIER

She Asks Post-Dispatch to Aid Her in Recovering Canine Playmate.

If the boys and girls of St. Louis will help Hattie Hallstain of 3609 North Market street find her pet fox terrier, Topsy, she will be very grateful to them. Topsy strayed away a week ago, and although Hattie has looked all through the neighborhood round about her home, she has been unable to find any trace of him. She has appealed to the Post-Dispatch to help her find Topsy.

Topsy is a pet of Hattie's. He has been her playmate for six years—she is 11 now—and she is very anxious for him to be returned to her. Topsy is a little fellow, all white, with the exception of his right ear, one-half of his left ear and the tip of his tail, and those parts are black. Topsy was playing in the yard one afternoon and strayed away. Hattie has cried for him every evening, and she thinks he would come home if he had his own way about it.

in the papers at the time as saying that he had been informed by judges and clerks of election whom he had subpenaed that the returning of the Democratic votes for Senator was left to the Democratic judges and clerks and that they had returned them for Stone, without much reference for whom they were cast."

"In the Third precinct of the Fourth Ward, 301 votes were returned for the Democratic candidate for governor, 300 for Stone and none for Folk. The recount by the Legislature Committee showed that there were only 281 Democratic ballots cast in this precinct, and a member of the Legislative Committee was quoted as saying that on these 281 ballots, 14 had voted for Folk, and on 25 of the ballots the name of none of the Democratic candidates for United States Senator was scratched.

"Thus, in this precinct alone, 39 votes were counted for Stone which were not cast for him, 39 were counted for him that were not in the box at all, and the total number of dishonest votes counted in his favor was 78.

How It Worked in Fourth.

"In the Fifth precinct of the Fourth Ward, 279 votes were returned as cast for the candidates for United States Senator, although only 242 persons were registered in the precinct and only 169 votes were cast. 110 more votes were returned for United States Senator than were found in the ballot box. Stone's vote, as returned in this precinct, was 120 and Folk's 15.

"In the Tenth Precinct of the Fourth Ward, 182 votes were counted for the Democratic candidates for Governor, 178 for Stone and 4 for Folk.

"In the Tenth Precinct of the Tenth Ward 103 votes were counted for Cowherd and 361 for the Democratic candidates for Senator, of which, 126 were given to Stone.

"In this precinct the total vote cast for Democratic and Republican candidates for Governor was 337, while 471 votes were counted as cast for the candidates for United States Senator. In this precinct, Stone was given 18 more votes than Cowherd.

"In the Third Precinct of the Sixteenth Ward, 123 votes were counted for Cowherd and 123 for the Democratic candidates for United States Senator, of which 120 were given to Stone.

"In the Sixteenth Ward the total votes for the Democratic candidates for Governor was 2342, while the total vote for United States Senator was 2142, of which Stone was given 1722. This ward is 'Boots' Brennan's ward.

"In the Third Precinct of the Seventeenth Ward 184 votes were counted for Cowherd and 192 for the Democratic candidates for Senator of which 146 were given to Stone.

"In the Tenth Precinct of the Nineteenth Ward, 171 votes were counted for Cowherd and 174 for the Democratic candidates for United States Senator, of which 115 were counted for Stone.

"In the Fourth Precinct of the Twentieth Ward, 142 votes were counted for Cowherd and 157 for the Democratic candidates for United States Senator, of which 114 were given to Stone.

"In the Twelfth precinct of the Twentieth Ward 367 votes were returned as cast for the candidates for United States Senator, 640 more than the votes actually cast. Of these 182 votes were counted for Cowherd, 328 for the Democratic candidates for United States.

"In 42 precincts more votes were credited to the Democratic candidates for United States Senator than were cast for the candidate on the Democratic State ticket receiving the largest number of votes, or were found in the ballot boxes by the Legislative Committee.

In the Eleventh precinct of the Tenth Ward, 108 votes were counted for Cowherd and 148 for the Democratic candidates for United States Senator.

In the First precinct of the Twelfth Ward, 107 votes were counted for Cowherd and 114 for the Democratic candidates for United States Senator, of which 92 were given to Stone.

12 MEN BURIED IN MINE BY AN EXPLOSION OF DYNAMITE

Several Others Rescued Burned and Injured in Accident in Pennsylvania.

INDIANA, Pa., Feb. 5.—An explosion caused, it is reported, by dynamite, tore the timbers and bracing to pieces and buried 12 men in the lower levels of Mine No. 3 at Ernest, five miles north of here today. Several men were taken from the mine burned and injured. Rescue parties have as yet failed to reach the entombed miners.

First reports said that 100 men were in the mine at the time of the explosion, but President Clark of the company operating the Ernest Mine, announced from Punxsutawney that but a dozen miners were below ground when the explosion occurred.

Wire communication with the mine was lost and details of the disaster did not reach here until this afternoon. The explosion occurred about 2 o'clock this morning.

Outside reports say 30 men are yet entombed in the mine.

A rescue party headed by State mine inspectors entered the mine at 10 o'clock this morning and at 2 o'clock had not been heard from. Fear for their safety is expressed. The cause of the explosion is said to have been dynamite which ignited a gas pocket.

The mine ordinarily has a day shift of 170.

WOMAN MISTAKES CHAPLAIN AT PRAYER FOR SPEAKER CANNON AND SAYS, "OLD HYPOCRITE"

Uncle Joe Tells Story and Is Uncertain About Who Is Victim of the Joke.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Speaker Cannon met the Rev. Harry M. Coudon, chaplain of the House of Representatives, in a corridor.

"You are an old hypocrite," he said roughly.

"Why, why, Mr. Speaker!" protested Dr. Coudon, in great surprise.

"Well, if you are not, I am," said the Speaker, "and I have just been hearing about it."

Then, while he linked his arm in that of the chaplain, he told the story.

"The other day a lady approached a doorkeeper in the House gallery who was protecting morning prayer from interruption. She attempted to push past, but was restrained. 'But I must go in,' she said. 'I want to see that man Cannon.

"'Just wait for a moment,' said the doorkeeper.

"'But I must see him; I have heard so much about him,' persisted the woman.

"To save trouble the man let her in. On the threshold she stopped a moment and saw Chaplain Coudon, with his head bowed in prayer.

"'Oh, the old hypocrite!' she ejaculated, 'and him praying, too!'"

GOLD AND DIAMONDS FOUND IN LIBERIA, OFFICIAL REPORTS

American Capital, It Is Suggested, Has Opportunity for Gain in Black Republic.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Gold and diamonds have been discovered in Liberia, about thirty miles from the coast, according to a report to this Government by Charge d'Affaires George W. Ellis of Monrovia. In his report the Charge says:

"The discoverer called at this Consulate-General with a quantity of the metal which he had obtained near the settlements, together with photographs showing himself and the natives at work. He also had a diamond in the rough found in the same section.

"The discoverer has been engaged for the past few months in gold washing in Metserrado County, about fifty miles from Monrovia. The gold has been recovered from the beds of small streams, although the discoverer has located the metal in the larger streams. In 13 days at a cost of about $15 he secured $57.60 worth of gold, according to his submitted statement and with skilled labor and up-to-date appliances the product could be greatly increased.

"The recommendation is that there would seem to be just now an opportunity for American capital to enter this phase of the development of Liberia and that action should not be delayed, as Europeans are pressing hard to get at the mining rights of the republic."

GIRL ROUTS FIREBUG AS HE APPLIES THE TORCH

Pauline Weidinger, Aided by Brother-in-Law, Saves Phelan-Faust Paint Plant.

Miss Pauline Weidinger and her brother-in-law, Roy Cornish, of 1037½ Chestnut street, frustrated the plans of a firebug to destroy the plant of the Phelan-Faust Paint Co. at 1136 Chestnut street Friday night.

Miss Weidinger and Cornish were seated at a front window of their home at 11:30 p. m. when they observed a man in a crouched position making his way toward the paint company's building. He carried a bundle under his arm and when he reached a side window he pried loose a board covering and placed the bundle on the sill. He then applied a match to the bundle.

Miss Weidinger and Cornish hurried across the street and at their approach the incendiary fled. They extinguished the blaze. According to a description given the police, the man was about 25 years old, 5 feet 2 inches tall and weighed about 140 pounds. He had a birthmark on the left side of his face.

TAFT AND CANNON DANCE TO "MERRY WIDOW" WALTZ STRAIN

President Floats About With Senator's Niece at Depew's Reception.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Dancing is a diversion not usually popularly associated with greatness—either of position or of physical confirmation—or with the septuagesimal age, but the need for a revision of the general view was demonstrated last evening at the reception given by Senator Depew of New York at his home in this city in honor of the Republican Editorial Association of his State.

President Taft and Speaker Cannon were among those who danced, thereby showing that one must not necessarily be of less estate than a President, of less avoirdupois than whatever that may be to which Mr. Taft confesses, or of the tender years of a debutant in order fully to enjoy the delights of a waltz.

Mr. Taft enlarged that gradually increasing circle of those who have had the honor to dance with the President by choosing for his partner Miss Paulding, niece of Senator Depew. To the alluring strains of the "Merry Widow Waltz" they floated several times about the room and later Mr. Taft requested and was granted a dance by Miss MacArthur, a daughter of one of the visiting newspaper men.

KENTUCKY SINKS; WIRELESS "S O S" SAVES THE CREW

"S O S" Starts Many Vessels to Relief of Steamship Sinking at Sea.

DAMAGED IN A STORM

Water Put Out Engine Fires Soon After Distress Signal Was Sent Out.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Feb. 5.—Wireless telegraphy has again shown its value in case of an accident at sea. Capt. Moore and his crew of 46 men were taken from the steamer Kentucky after the vessel was so full of water that the engine fires were extinguished and the craft was helpless in a severe storm.

The rescue was made by the steamer Alamo of the Mallory Line bound from New York to Key West, Tampa and Mobile. She caught the "S O S" distress signal sent out by the operator on the Kentucky, learned where the disabled steamer was foundering and reached the scene within a few hours.

The Kentucky sank a few hours after the captain and crew were taken aboard the Alamo.

Many Heard Distress Signal.

The "S O S" signal was sent from the Kentucky early yesterday morning. The wireless ears of the navy heard it, the amateurs who could not hope to lend assistance heard it, and all the coastwise craft at sea from Cape May to Jacksonville waited tremulously for the message that followed the signal:

"Kentucky sinking; latitude 32:10, longitude 76:30."

The nearest wireless steamship to the Kentucky was the Mallory liner, Alamo, bound from New York for Key West, Tampa and Mobile, and she ate up the knots to answer the cry.

Meanwhile Capt. William A. Marshall, commander of the Norfolk Navy Yard, had sent out the battleship Louisiana and the scout cruiser Birmingham to the Kentucky. The revenue cutter Yamacaw started out from Savannah to help.

Distress Signals Ceased.

Soon after the Mallory liner began racing for the Kentucky the distressed ship's wireless ceased working and it was supposed that the water had put out her fires and stopped the engines. For five and a half hours the wireless station ashore heard nothing from the Kentucky.

At the end of that period, about 5 o'clock in the afternoon, there was wireless jubilation all along the coast when the Alamo's wireless operator sent out this message:

"Latitude 32:46, longitude 76:28 (about 180 miles south of Hatteras); steamship Alamo has just taken Capt. Moore and crew of 46 men from sinking steamer Kentucky. Water has already reached fire room and steamer will probably founder before midnight. The Alamo is now proceeding to Key West."

The Kentucky, an old wooden vessel of 996 gross tonnage and 203 feet long, was bound from New York to the Pacific, to carry passengers between Tacoma and Alaskan ports for the Alaska Pacific Steamship Company.

Steamer Had Bad Luck.

Bad luck was the Kentucky's lot almost immediately after she left New York for her 1400-mile voyage on Jan. 11. Good luck was her lot when the wireless instruments were the last things installed before she departed.

One hundred and fifty miles off Sandy Hook the vessel began leaking badly, but by working the pumps valiantly Capt. Moore was able to reach Newport News with 16 inches of water in the vessel's hold. Here repairs were made and the ship received a certificate from Lloyd's and the United States inspector at the port, saying that she was sound and seaworthy.

Nothwithstanding this assurance, T. A. McLarney, formerly the night operator at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, who had shipped with the vessel when she left that port, refused to continue on the voyage because his parents at Monticello, N. Y., had a premonition that something would happen. They bombarded him with messages to this effect, that in deference to their wishes he obtained a substitute operator, W. D. McGinnis, who sent out the [illegible] which saved the lives of his shipmates.

[illegible]er being repaired here the trip was resumed. Almost immediately she found herself in rough seas, which buffetted her sides and opened her seams. Heavy weather was encountered off Cape Hatteras and grave fears were felt lest the steamer might add her bones to the hundreds already in the graveyard of the Atlantic.

The Kentucky began leaking very seriously early yesterday and Capt. Moore saw it would be useless to attempt to navigate the ship further. Then the sharp call for aid began to go out in every direction.

The Kentucky was insured for $70,000.

VAUGHN VISCERA ARE UNWELCOME CHARGE TO THIS SHERIFF

CITY OFFICIALS OF CHICAGO INDICTED IN SEWER FRAUD

Four Held in $45,000 Payment for Removal of Clay Termed "Shale."

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Four true bills, charging City Hall officials with conspiracy in connection with the $45,000 "shale rock" scandal, were returned by the county grand jury today. The men indicted were: John Ericson, city engineer; Michael H. McGovern, contractor; Paul Redieske, former Deputy Commissioner of Public Works, and Ralph A. Bonnell, former assistant city engineer.

All the above, with the exception of Ericson, were indicted a short time ago in connection with an alleged attempt to defraud the city of about $250,000 in the building of "Section N," of the Lawrence avenue sewer.

The "shale rock" scandal also was unearthed in the construction of "Section D" of the same sewer. The city paid the McGovern company more than $45,000 for the removal of a large quantity of so-called "shale rock." Upon examination by experts, it was stated that the "shale rock" was nothing more than hard clay and offered little obstruction.

McGovern was the contractor in charge of the construction and the man who was paid for the removal of the "rock." Bonnell certified it was rock and Ericson approved Bonnell's decision. Redieske then put his stamp of approval on the work and the city paid the money.

Later in the day second indictments were returned against McGovern, Bonnell, Redieske and the eight others who were indicted last week.

The Royal Mail Steam Packet Ortona, which arrived in New York recently on her maiden voyage from Southampton, via the West Indies, is the largest and fastest liner which has ever been placed on the regular West Indian route by any company. She is a twin screw steamship of 9000 tons and can average 18 knots, and is equipped with all the latest improvements for the comfort of passengers in tropical seas.

She has accommodation for 250 first-class passengers, with suites and cabins de luxe, drawing room, writing room, cardroom and smoking room on her promenade deck, and a veranda on her boat deck above the drawing room, where tea and light refreshments are served in hot weather. Her cabins and saloons are spacious, with large ports and electric fans to cool the ship in addition to the electric ventilating apparatus with which she is equipped.

The Ortona will sail her homeward voyage to Southampton via Jamaica and Panama on Saturday, Feb. 5. She is commanded by Capt. A. J. Laws.

CARNEGIE AIDS ST. LOUIS CHURCH

Check Sent to Cote Brilliante Presbyterian Church.

Andrew Carnegie has sent a check for $1125 to the Cote Brilliante Presbyterian Church to pay the debt remaining on the church's new pipe organ. Departing from his usual custom, Mr. Carnegie attached no condition to the gift. He did not ask the church to raise an equal amount.

The check was the result of persistency. The pastor, the Rev. C. M. Rauch, wrote six letters to Mr. Carnegie before he received a favorable reply to his request.

VAUGHN VISCERA ARE DELIVERED TO STATE CHEMIST

Jars Containing Organs Are Taken Under Guard From Paris to Columbia.

CORONER ORDERS STEP

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Mo., Feb. 5.—The viscera of the body of the late Prof. J. T. Vaughn are in the possession of State Chemist Schweitzer at Columbia. The jars containing the organs were taken out of town hurriedly after midnight under guard of Sheriff Nolen and Deputy Sheriff Burgess, accompanied by Dr. Payne.

The action was taken at the command of Coroner Wilson following a day spent in unsuccessful efforts on the part of the Vaughn and Proctor families to agree and was at first thought to be prompted by a desire to escape a probable writ of prohibition by the Supreme Court.

The removal was accomplished with the utmost secrecy, but the other side was alert all night. What is to be done cannot be known at this time as attorneys for both sides refuse to give out information.

Attorneys for the Proctor family are in conference here this morning. Prosecuting Attorney Fuller made a hurried trip to Holliday last night and J. H. Whitecotton and W. T. Ragland, opposing the State, went to Moberly. Communication between Paris and Kirksville by both sides has been frequent since noon yesterday.

WOMAN IS SUSPECTED OF BEING MRS. BELLE GUNNESS

Is Housekeeper for Farmer and Authorities Will Investigate.

WILLMAR, Minn., Feb. 5.—Mrs. Belle Gunness, fat, heavy-featured, alleged murderess and siren, who is accused of having lured many Northwestern farmers to their doom at "Gunness farm," near Laporte, Ind., is, after three years' disappearance, believed to be the housekeeper for a farmer 14 miles northeast of Willmar.

This information, which is credited by the Indiana police, has been given the authorities by Samuel Kirby of Mankato, Minn., a wealthy farmer.

The farmer's movements during the past few months inspired, Sam Kirby believes, by his housekeeper, have been toward putting in cash all his property in view of a "trip to California." This action, closely in line with Mrs. Gunness' policy and the alleged personal similarity of the housekeeper and the Laporte fugitive, have convinced the Mankato man. Chief of Police Clinton Cochran of Laporte, armed with a warrant for Mrs. Gunness' arrest, is expected in Willmar.

Meanwhile the suspected woman is under the closest surveillance.

Indianapolis papers have telegraphed offering to finance the housekeeper's case, if she would confess her interest in "Gunness farm." Other telegrams also have been sent to her, but none of them have reached her and she is probably unaware of the suspicions.

MILK PRODUCERS TO ORGANIZE

Protection Against Retailers Is Object of Gathering.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—More than 1200 milk producers are expected to attend the gathering on Monday at Central Y. M. C. A. which is to form a national organization for protection against the retailers. Representatives of at least ten leading milk consuming centers of the Middle West will attend.

The following centers will be represented according to Secretary James P. Grier of the Milk Producers' Protective Association of the Chicago district: Cincinnati, Omaha, Detroit, Effingham, Ill. (St. Louis district), Watertown, Wis. (Chicago and Milwaukee), Minneapolis, St. Paul and Kansas City.

NICARAGUA WINS ALL-DAY BATTLE WITH INSURGENTS

Government Troops Outnumber Rebels, Kill General and Destroy Maxim Gun.

GREYTOWN IS SHELLED

Insurgent Cruiser Disregards Order of British Naval Commander.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1910, by the Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

MANAGUA, Feb. 5.—Managua is noisy with booming guns and blaring whistles and shrieking crowds, jubilant over a reported victory of the Government forces at Santo Tomas.

Gens. Vasquez and Rivas, with 1000 men, attacked 600 revolutionists under Gen. Blendon. The battle began at 1 p. m. yesterday and lasted until nightfall, when the Government troops, in a final assault, swept the defenders from the field, capturing many prisoners, with arms and ammunition.

Gen Blendon is among the dead. The insurgents' Maxim gun was wrecked.

Santo Tomas is 15 miles northeast of Acoyapa and about ten miles southeast of Libertad.

A feature of the battle was an artillery duel from the heights.

Greytown Is Shelled.

The rebel gunboat Ometepe, disregarding the warning given by the commander of the British cruiser Scylla that no fighting would be allowed in Greytown, appeared in the harbor Thursday and bombarded the city for 20 minutes. Nine houses were set on fire by the shells from the gunboat.

The Government batteries replied and succeeded in forcing the Ometepe to retire.

The fires that were started destroyed a number of residences. Those in the town were unable to control the flames, which were only checked when the cruiser Scylla landed sailors to aid the town folks.

The United States cruiser Des Moines is at Greytown, and it is reported here her commander, Commodore Shipley, refused the request of Capt. Thesiger of the British cruiser Scylla to forbid further fighting, and that Capt. Thesiger issued the order on his own behalf, the reason given being the heavy British investments in the town.

CHAMP CLARK IS BOOMED FOR PRESIDENT BY MANY FRIENDS

He Tells Them Party Might Go Further and Fare Worse, and Probably Will.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Since the overwhelming victory of the Democrats in the election held to fill the vacancy in the DeArmond district of Missouri, Leader Champ Clark is being flooded with congratulatory letters and telegrams. One received from Judge H. R. Cline of Tulsa, Ok., said:

"Congratulations. Democratic victory in sight. Champ Clark, Speaker next year. President in 1912."

"I am answering them all alike," said Mr. Clark. "I'm quoting my old friend, Thomas B. Reed, to them. Back in 1896 someone wrote to Reed and asked him if he would run for the presidency that year.

"'Well,' answered Reed, 'they might go further and fare worse, and I think they will.'"

Have you an arctic region?

In most homes there is one room chosen from among the rest for its fair degree of warmth. Observe how the children cling to that room with the stubbornness of nature; how they fret at the thought of a cold bedroom, and look with horror at the cold approach of bedtime and the more grim time of rising.

AMERICAN RADIATORS & IDEAL BOILERS

radiate comfort through every room—make the house a home ALL over. Don't wait until it's your turn to answer the question, "Why do boys leave home?" but prevent the question ever arising by at once examining into the comforts and advantages of IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators for Hot-Water and Low-Pressure Steam heating.

ADVANTAGE 14: In IDEAL Boilers the same water is used over and over and over again. It is not necessary that a water or steam plant should be supplied direct from the street water-main, as the system when once filled requires but a small amount of water to replace the loss due to evaporation; hence Boilers, either steam or water, are installed in farm-houses and other buildings remote from water-works supply. A few gallons only of water need be added once or twice during the season.

A No. 3-25-W IDEAL Boiler and 700 ft. of 38-in. AMERICAN Radiators, costing the owner $315, were used to Hot-Water heat this cottage.

A No. 1-22-W IDEAL Boiler and 422 ft. of 38-in. AMERICAN Radiators, costing the owner $205, were used to Hot-Water heat this cottage.

At these prices the goods can be bought of any reputable, competent Fitter. This did not include cost of labor, pipe, valves, freight, etc., which installation is extra and varies according to climatic and other conditions.

Ask for catalog, "Ideal Heating," which tells all the advantages.

Do not wait to build a new home, but enjoy comfort and content in the present one. Sizes for all classes of buildings—smallest to largest—in town or country.

Our free book, "Heating Investments," tells much that it will pay you well to know. Write us today kind and size of building you wish to heat.

IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators change any house into a home.

TERMINAL USES CAVE-LIKE DEPOT FOR PASSENGERS

Wasnington Avenue Station Inadequate, Dark, Smoky and Gloomy.

RESEMBLES A BOX

To Reach It Travelers Are Compelled to Walk Down Stairs and Stand Up.

The Washington avenue station of the Terminal Association is the passenger gateway of St. Louis. It is used every day by thousands of business men and visitors to the city. Being convenient to the business and hotel districts, passengers can save 30 minutes to an hour's time by getting on or off at the station.

Although the Terminal Association boasts of what it has done for St. Louis, and from time to time has promised an adequate passenger station at Washington avenue, where all trains to or from the East, with very few exceptions, stop, travelers are wondering when the station will be improved to their needs.

This station consists of a box-like frame attachment to the west approach of Eads Bridge. It is covered with corrugated iron. There are three entrances to the station—one from Main street, one from the alley between Main street and the Levee, and one from the wagon roadway of the bridge. To get to or from any train by way of any entrance it is necessary to climb up or down many stairs.

Entrance Like a Cave.

Trains coming over the Merchants Bridge stop on the elevated tracks in front of the station. Passengers who wish to reach the train from the Washington avenue level of the bridge drop into an opening resembling the entrance to a cave, pass down two flights of stairs to the main waiting room of the station—a room possibly 100 feet long, and from 10 to 15 feet wide—and at the east end of this room descend three more long flights of stairs. This leads them on the landing of a stairway opening upon the railway tracks.

The stairways are very dark. Passengers who go to the station before their trains arrive have to stand in dirty stairways or vestibules, as there are no adequate accommodations for sitting.

There are no elevated platforms for getting on or off of the trains.

The trains crossing Eads bridge stop on a level with the main waiting room. Smoke is nearly always issuing from the tunnel at this point, making it very disagreeable to get either on or off of the trains.

There are two board stairways leading from the station to Main street and the alley. These stairways are ramshackle affair. The one leading to Main street is about three hundred feet long and has a roof twenty or thirty feet above it. The stairway leading to the alley between Main street and the Levee is built on the order of a swinging bridge. Immediately in front of the main entrance to this stairway is a vacant lot filled with boilers and junk.

A Makeshift Affair.

The station in its entirety is a makeshift affair. The interior is dungeonlike. Blackened by volumes of smoke almost continuously pouring out of the tunnel, it appears as if it has never had a thorough scrubbing during the many years that it has stood at the gateway to the city—an eyesore to all who see it. It is more like a big black rectangular box nailed to the side of the west bridge approach than anything else. Being constructed entirely of wood, and heated with coal stoves, there is constant danger of fire. It is erected on the cheapest possible principles.

WORKMAN'S SKULL FRACTURED

Disappearance of Fellow Employe Leads to Assault Theory.

The disappearance of a fellow workman shortly before Michael Lousch was found unconscious with his skull fractured at the Medart Pulley Works, De Kalb and Potomac streets, Saturday, led the police to believe an assault was committed.

No one saw Lousch fall, but a bar of iron lying at his side indicates he was struck by someone. The man suspected worked with Lousch and left his place of employment shortly before Lousch was found unconscious. Lousch was taken to the City Hospital. He is 48 years old and lives at 2134 South Second Street.

"My mother is a great sufferer from rheumatism, and Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills is the only remedy that relieve her."

MRS. G. DAVENPORT,
Roycefield, N. J.

For the pains of rheumatism there is nothing that can equal

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills.

They overcome that nervous irritation, relieve the pain and swelling, while they have a tendency to allay fever. If taken as directed they are invaluable to chronic sufferers, as the weakening effect of pain is lessened. Try them—your druggist sells them.

The first package will benefit; if not, your druggist will return your money.

EAST ST. LOUIS NOTES.

Mistaken identity seems to be responsible for the beating of Clifton W. Butler, an East St. Louis mail collector, at Eighth street and Baugh avenue Thursday night, by three unidentified men. The men approached Butler from behind and struck him several blows on the head. When they discovered he was a mail clerk, they helped him to his feet and picked up his scattered letters. No attempt was made to rob him.

Mayor Cook, E. P. Keshner, F. T. Joyner, Conrad Reeb and John M. Chamberlain have been appointed by Robert E. Conway, president of the East St. Louis Commercial Club, as a committee to take charge of inducing the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen to locate their headquarters in East St. Louis. The matter was presented to the Commercial Club at the last meeting by A. R. Layman.

The Ladies' Deep Waterways Club of East St. Louis was entertained Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Silas Cook, 1111 St. Louis avenue. Mrs. William A. Hockaday, Mrs. A. A. McBrien, Misses Vivian Edwards, Zella, Letha and Mabel Cook assisted in the receiving. The guests were Mmes. W. H. Thompson, George H. Parsons, C. M. Horner, Robert Sikking, Harry Carpenter, Mary Lehman, Henry Voelker, Phillip Wolf, F. B. Steger, F. B. Jordan, Fred Geissing, Sam Daniels, Sophia Strothmann, H. E. Mollman, N. C. McLean, M. L. Harris and John Garvey.

The executive committee in charge of the arrangements for the Egyptian Hustlers' convention in East St. Louis in June, decided at a meeting held in the Elks' clubrooms Friday night to recommend to the Hustler committee that the convention be held the second week in June instead of the first. The convention of the Illinois Elks at Quincy, Ill., the last week in May will take many of those connected with the Hustler convention out of town when the committee thinks that they should be in the city making final arrangements. President Bulger of the Hustlers, who attended the meeting, favored the change of date. These chairmen were appointed for the subcommittees: Entertainment and parade, J. J. Faulkner; public comfort, J. B. Maguire; finance, W. E. Trautmann; decorations, H. E. Mollman; reception, John Nordhaus; fireworks, James Donahue.

James Young, 64 years old, died of tuberculosis Friday night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. James McCutcheon. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the daughter's residence, 933 North Eleventh street. Interment in Mount Hope Cemetery.

The funeral of James McChesney, 82 years old, who died at Palmyra, Ill., was held Saturday afternoon from the Kurrus undertaking parlors. Interment was in St. Peter's Cemetery. Besides Mrs. Hudson, Mr. McChesney is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Hickman P. Rodgers of St. Louis. He was for many years a stockman in East St. Louis, but moved to Palmyra 15 years ago.

Mrs. Myrtle N. Pruitt won a separate maintenance suit against her husband, Finis L. Pruitt, in the East St. Louis City Court Friday, and Judge Millard ordered Pruitt to pay his wife $20 a month. The Pruitts were married July 24, 1908, and lived together three months. At the time of the separation Mrs. Pruitt, who was working in a restaurant, went to the theater with her father, and when she returned home it is said Pruitt refused to open the door. Pruitt is a barber. The case was appealed.

Rooms 10, 11 and 12 in the Commercial Building have been opened as offices of the East St. Louis Commercial Club, and Sherman Wilson, traffic manager for the club, will be there at all times to confer with shippers.

Four suits for divorce, all on the allegation of desertion, were filed in the East St. Louis City Court Friday. Lawrence L. Walker wants a divorce from Mrs. Walker; Mrs. Clara Brooks from Willis Brooks; Mrs. Ola Fateley asks for a divorce from Joseph Fateley and the restoration of her maiden name, and Mrs. Beatrice Cash from Walter Cash. The latter couple lived together only four months.

The Men's Social Club of the First Baptist Church was entertained Friday night at the home of the pastor, the Rev. E. V. Lamb, 419 North Eleventh street.

The Rev. J. S. Cummins, District Superintendent of the Mount Carmel District of the Methodist Episcopal Church, brother of the Rev. J. W. Cummins, pastor of the First Methodist Church, and the Rev. E. P. Carroll of Grayville, Ill., are visiting at the home of the Rev. Cummins, and attending the sessions of the Laymen's Missionary Convention in St. Louis. Sunday evening the Rev. Mr. Carroll will conduct the services at the First Methodist Church.

Michael L. Carney, 45 years old, an employe of the City Engineering Department, and formerly a railroader, died at his home, 1124 St. Louis avenue Friday night. He is survived by his widow. The funeral arrangements have not been made.

Just three weeks from the time that her husband was laid to rest in Mount Hope Cemetery in East St. Louis, Mrs. Rose Kitchen, who died Saturday morning of tuberculosis, will be buried beside him Tuesday afternoon. The husband, Carl E. Kitchen, who was a fireman for the Illinois Central railroad, was killed Jan. 16 at Pinckneyville, Ill., when his train collided with a switch engine. The wife was in a serious condition at the time and grief hastened the end. She had been a sufferer for over a year. Mrs. Kitchen was 35 years old. There are no children. The funeral will be held from the home, 808 North Thirteenth street, at 2 o'clock Tuesday.

ST. CHARLES NOTES.

Elva Kuechler and Emil Thro, while riding the former's motorcycle at a fast rate on the highway bridge yesterday, collided with a farmer's wagon. Both of the young men were thrown and their faces badly bruised. The motorcycle was badly damaged. The accident occurred near the St. Louis County approach. They had been speeding the machine and before they could check it it ran directly into the wagon. Kuechler has but one leg, the other having been accidentally shot away while he was hunting, two years ago.

Henry J. Nadler, proprietor of a sawmill at Femme Osage, was the victim of an accident yesterday while engaged in sawing lumber. He and others were unloading lumber from the mill carriage when in some way a heavy plank slipped and fell. He was knocked down and his left leg broken in two places.

The tenth divorce suit for the March term of the Circuit Court was filed yesterday morning. Fountain Clair entered suit for divorce from his wife, Josephine Clair. His petition states they were married in 1806 and separated in 1903. The divorce is asked for on statutory charges.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of this city will entertain 40 of the State officers of the W. C. T. U. on Feb. 9 and 10. Addresses will be made by Mrs. Carrie Lee Carter Stokes, Mrs. Burger, Miss Shaner and others.

Millions of Lives Lost

An Awful Toll Collected by Consumption. Many Unnecessary Deaths From This Disease.

If people could only understand that systemic catarrh is an internal disease that external applications cannot cure, they would not need to be warned so often about this malady, which, when neglected, paves the way oftentimes for consumption, at the cost of millions of lives every year. Yet catarrh may be cured, if the right treatment is employed.

Catarrh is caused by a general diseased state of the system which leads commonly to annoying and perhaps serious local conditions, which may prove a fertile breeding ground for germs of consumption. External remedies give but temporary ease.

The only way to successfully treat catarrh is by employing a medicine which is absorbed and carried by the blood to all parts of the system, so that the mucous membrane or internal lining of the body is toned up and made capable of resisting the infection of consumption and other diseases.

We have a remedy prepared from the prescription of a physician who for 30 years studied and made catarrh a specialty, and whose record was a patient restored to health in every case where his treatment was followed as prescribed. That remedy is Rexall Mucu-Tone. We are so positive that it will completely overcome catarrh in all its various forms, whether acute or chronic, that we promise to return every penny paid us for the medicine in every case where it fails or for any reason does not satisfy the user.

We want you to try Rexall Mucu-Tone on our recommendation and guarantee. We are right here where you live, and you do not contract any obligation or risk when you try Rexall Mucu-Tone on our guarantee. We have Rexall Mucu-Tone in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Very often the taking of one 50-cent bottle is sufficient to make a marked impression upon the case. Of course, in chronic cases a longer treatment is necessary. The average in such instances is three $1.00 bottles. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in St. Louis only at our store—The Rexall Store. The Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., S. E. BEEF BOUGHT IN AMERICA COSTS LESS IN ENGLAND

Price Under That in United States Even After Shipment Across Sea.

8 CENTS HIGHER HERE

Difference Is in Sirloin in Fashionable Quarters of Great Cities.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Correspondence from London says: "Butchers in the West End here do large business in American beef. But they sell it as 'prime Scotch' and at 4 cents a pound more than the best English.

"The American beef so sold is slaughtered at Liverpool, and is known as 'Liverpool-killed.'

"One of the best known West End firms gives prices he charges his richest customers here for American 'prime Scotch' beef as: Sirloin, 24 cents a pound; shoulder or middle rib, 18 cents a pound; flanks or neck, 12 cents a pound."

The West End of London corresponds with out Fifth avenue or fashionable quarter. In that district porterhouse steak has been 35 cents a pound, sirloin, 32 cents a pound—8 to 12 cents more per pound than the same beef is selling for in London, after all the costs and charges of carrying it 3000 miles across the ocean.

They don't use shoulder or middle rib much in Fifth avenue.

Bought in America.

But in upper Broadway porterhouse steak was fetching 28 cents a pound and sirloin 25 cents a pound. Shoulder or middle rib was only 14 and 15 cents a pound and flank or neck 10 cents a pound.

The beef sold in London so much cheaper than in New York is American beef, bought on the hoof in the same markets used by American packers; it is shipped to Liverpool, is slaughtered in that city and then shipped as meats to the British capital, adding to the prime cost in America the cost of two shipments and two handlings.

PICTURES SOLD AT AUCTION BRING $255,750 IN AN HOUR; MILLET SELLS FOR $53,100

Canvas by Dupre, Less Than 7x10 Inches, Bought by Dealer for $5200.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—In just one hour last night in Mendelssohn Hall, Thomas E. Kirby, of the American Art Association sold twenty-one paintings, comprising the last collection formed by H. S. Henry of Philadelphia, for a total of $255,750. One of the pictures, Millet's "Going to Work—Dawn of Day," was bought by Scott and Fowles for $53,100, this canvas having been bought by Henry last April in the Martin sale in the same hall for $50,000. It was the last picture he bought before his death.

The renown of the collection brought to Mendelssohn Hall the largest audience that has attended any of these sales in recent years. The first bid of the night was $1000, which also was the lowest "opener," several of the pictures being started at $10,000, and the Millet opening at $25,000. Dealers bought most of the pictures, the only well-known amateur collectors getting any of the works being C. K. G. Billings and William A. Clark, the former Senator, who was in his accustomed seat in front by the stage.

Billings, through the purchase of Daubigny's "La Saulaie" for $23,000, made a new high record for this Frenchman's work in New York. Another feature of the sale was the price realized by Dupre's "Vaches Se Desalterant Dans Une Mare," the painting being only 7 by 9¾ inches. It was bought by Knoedler & Co. for $5200.

FOURTH CHRISTIAN CHURCH TO BUILD A NEW EDIFICE

Plans to Be Announced When New Pastor Takes Charge Tomorrow.

Plans for the erection of a new church building by the congregation of the Fourth Christian Church will be announced Sunday, when the new pastor, the Rev. E. T. Edmonds, will have charge of the services for the first time.

The congregation proposes to build a structure to cost $25,000 near O'Fallon Park. The site has not been chosen. The building now used is at Blair and Penrose avenues.

The Rev. Mr. Edmonds comes to St. Louis from Aurora, Mo., and succeeds the Rev. E. T. McFarland, who has gone to Rock Island, Ill.

ASSEMBLY FOR THIRD TIME DEFEATS BILL TO COMPROMISE CITY'S $200,000 GAS LIGHT SUIT

Action Is to Recover From National Surety Co., Which Guaranteed Contract.

For the third time the Municipal Assembly has defeated a bill to compromise for $100,000 the city's suit to recover $200,000 from the National Surety Co., which guaranteed the contract of the Kern Incandescent Gas Light Co.

This time the Council has given the measure its quietus. On former occasions the bill failed in the House of Delegates. Only Councilmen Davis and Drew supported the compromise when it was finally considered and rejected Friday.

It was in connection with this bill, while it was pending in the House a year ago, that there were rumors of a demand for $25,000 as the price of its passage. This rumor was revived when the measure was under consideration in the House, following a speech by Delegate Roy C. Eilers, who declared, at a meeting of the Self-Culture Hall, that the "temptations of a young legislator were almost overwhelming."

All the persons who were mentioned as having heard the rumor at that time denied that there was any foundation for it.

The Kern company, after receiving the contract to light the streets, in February, 1900, failed to do the work. The city then brought suit against the National Surety Co., after penalties to the amount of $200,000 had accrued. This suit is still pending in the United States Circuit Court. Former City Counselor Bates and City Counselor Walther recommended that the surety company's offer of adjustment be accepted. About a year ago the Council passed the bill, but the House of Delegates permitted it to die in committee.

Councilmen Norvell and Hauschulte, who favored the compromise at that time, voted with the Republicans when it was killed at Friday's meeting.

800 MEN IN ONE BIBLE CLASS

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 5.—The neighborhood men's Bible class of the North Side, an undenominational organization, with a membership of 800, is about to build a home for itself at a cost of $75,000.

This step is unprecedented in the history of such organizations, as heretofore they have been content to hold their meetings in churches. The inability of any of the neighborhood churches to accommodate so large an organization decided the move.

THINKS UNCLE SAM SHOULD LEND HAND TO SAVE HEATHENS

Chairman J. Campbell White Would Enlist U. S. in Foreign Missionary Movement.

HOME WORK URGED

Kansas Cityan Fears World-Wide Soul Quest Will React on Our Morals.

In an informal discussion at the Laymen's Missionary Movement convention Saturday morning, Chairman J. Campbell White of New York urged the churches to make greater appropriations to foreign missions and said that the United States Government should assist in the work.

"If we would put one-fifth of the money in foreign mission work that we put into our annual military budget, it would do five times the good as civilizing influence than is done by our standing army," he said.

P. C. McFarlane of Kansas City, secretary of the Brotherhood of the Disciple Church, made a plea for home mission work, and said that the broad attention to foreign missions would react upon the work at home.

"The wailing of the millions of heathens in Africa, China, Korea and other countries is no louder than the wailing of the thousands of children in sweatshops not more than dozen blocks from here. The spiritual part of this movement is to realize the need not only to save the foreign heathens but to save the heathens at home.

"We need to let in rays of light to the thousands of children in sweatshops and save the slaves to drink in America. We need to wipe out the brewery and distillery as a commercial asset.

"The talk of saving millions in foreign lands will react upon us if we are not careful, and counteract our work at home. The reconstruction of our own social conditions is more important than the saving of foreign heathens.

Hon. T. H. Yun, president of the Songdo College in Songdo, Korea, the only foreign born missionary attending the convention, arrived in St. Louis Saturday direct from his native country. In his address to the convention he said that 25 years ago Korea was a sealed land to Christianity. The pioneer missionaries had hewn the way, he said, and there now are 180,000 Christians there.

"I come not to dictate to you what to do, nor to make demands, but I come to thank you for what you have done for Korea," he told the laymen.

Donations Are Discussed.

An informal discussion of the amount that each church should donate to the foreign missionary fund by the delegates to the Laymen's Missionary Convention at Friday's night's session, estimates were made ranging from a tenth to a half of the church funds. None of the delegates favored so low a percentage as 3 or 4 per cent, which Chairman J. Campbell White said was the custom at present.

The subject then was turned to what proportion of a church member's income should be given to the home and foreign missionary fund. This brought out the following declaration by Bishop E. R. Hendrix of Kansas City:

"One street car fare a week from the 20,000,000 Christians in the United States would raise a fund that would evangelize the world in a wonderfully short time."

Bishop Hendrix spoke on "Where Are the Nine?" and made the statement that only one church in four contributed materially to foreign missions. He quoted from a Wall street journal to the effect that Americans are displaying the money-loving tendencies that usually precede a nation's downfall. "It takes greater heroism to be poor in America than to charge the breastworks in Manchuria," he said.

A weekly systematic collection of a missionary fund in all churches was the keynote of the addresses at Friday's sessions. At the morning meeting the conditions in foreign missionary fields were explained and the afternoon and evening sessions were devoted to planning for enlarging the financial side of missions.

30 Women Preach 3 Minutes Each.

NORWICH, N. Y., Feb. 5.—Thirty young women, prominent in society circles preached short sermons at a big evangelistic campaign meeting here last night. Each stepped to the front of the platform, took her text and preached for three minutes. The sermons were heard by a congregation of 3000.

CHRISTIAN CREED CURBED FANATICS OF THE FAR EAST

Missionaries Tell Laymen How Efforts Have Allayed Race Hatred.

COL. ELIJAH W. HALFORD of New York, when he took up the gavel as temporary chairman of the convention, announced that each speaker would be allowed 12 minutes, or at the most 15 minutes. "The buzz-saw will have to cut them off if the speakers take longer," he said. "It will be a sort of unfilmely taking off, but it will have to be done for the sake of the program." He kept his word. The buzz-saw worked.

Dr. W. S. Marquis of Rock Island, Ill., drew the applause of the convention before he had been on the stage half a minute. He explained that he was delayed in reaching the meeting because he remained at home to help file a local option petition on the last night for filing. He said the final count showed the petition contained 250 signatures more than was needed to begin the battle. This struck a popular chord with the delegates.

"The church followed the flag to the Philippines and carried the message of freedom to the people of that distant land," the Rev. H. P. Silver, a returned missionary, told the laymen. "The missionaries convinced the people that America did not want to wring from them their gold and wealth. Civilization is dangerous if divorced from religious influence. It would have been more dangerous to those ignorant Filipinos unless it had been accompanied by religion."

The Rev. Mr. Silver formerly was a chaplain in the United States Army, and now is department secretary of the Episcopal Church for the Missouri district.

The Rev. George Heber Jones of Korea told the laymen that 25 years ago Korea was a closed land to Christianity and that it meant death to any native who thought of accepting the Christian religion. Fifteen years ago Jones went to a Korean village and sent his card to the Governor of the place. "I know what you want. You want to talk Christianity. You can't stay here," was his answer. He was escorted beyond the village limits under a guard of native soldiers.

Three years ago Jones went back to that village. He was met by 200 enthusiastic women and children dressed in white and was given a royal reception. The Prince Imperial of Korea, heir to the throne, wrote an inscription for the cornerstone of the new Y. M. C. A. building.

"Missionaries are safe there now," Jones told the laymen delegates. "There now are 250,000 Christians in Korea and they are as enthusiastic as a crowd of 'fans' at a baseball game in America."

Dr. E. H. Richards of Africa is enthusiastic about that land of diamonds and ferocious animals.

"Outside of America, Africa is the greatest thing in dirt," he said to the convention. He was not so enthusiastic about it 30 years ago. He described his feelings then by saying:

"When you sent me to Africa as a missionary 30 years ago, I was alone. I wandered about that dangerous land of swamps, savages and tropical beasts and sought a footing and wondered if I had entered my grave. I knew you were at home singing 'Onward Christian Soldiers' and I often wondered how you thought there were two of us."

Among the black men of that country there now are 250,000 Christians.

The wife of Dr. Isaac T. Headland, a missionary to China, who is attending the convention, is the physician to the royal family at Pekin. Her duties allow her to enter the royal household, a privilege not granted to any Chinese woman by the Manchu dynasty. She is thereby granted many royal privileges by the Oriental nobility.

Dr. Headland, who is at the head of missions in China, has written a book on "Court Life in China," which has been accepted as a standard in that Empire. His translation of the Mother Goose Rhymes into Chinese has taken the delights of American childhood to the children of the Orient.

Dr. Headland described to the laymen his entrance to China as a missionary 19 years ago.

From a civilized country dominated by religion, where I traveled 2000 miles in three days, the trip ended on three boards and a donkey, making 80 miles in six days in a land which had not accepted Christianity.

"Do you think that country needed missionaries?"

BURGLAR TRAIL LEADS TO CAT

Police Discover Feline Scratching Hot Air Pipe.

Burglarious noises in Mrs. Abraham Gross' apartment at 4733 Washington boulevard did not cease when Mrs. Gross, her small daughter, Rebecca, and the maid, screamed. Mrs. Gross then telephoned the police.

After 10 minutes the police arrived, and officially announced there were no burglars. The noises kept up, however. One policeman traced the sound to the pipe from the hot-air furnace, and thence to basement. A large black cat was found scratching on the pipe.

MORMON CONVERTS INSIST ON WARM WATER FOR BAPTISM

They Reject River Plan and Ceremony Is Performed in Turkish Bath Pool.

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 5.—Trenton's first Mormon baptism was conducted in the pool of a Turkish bath. Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Shennerd of Ewing Township were baptized. The Delaware River had been selected, but the converts' religious ardor didn't go as far as that. They said the river was too cold.

Elder C. J. Hendrickson led the converts into four feet of warm water. They were dipped three times. Other elders present were Y. P. Dredge and A. P. Miller of Philadelphia and Jesse McCullough of this city. They objected strongly to the use of warm water, but the candidates were persistent. They presented a doctor's certificate to the effect that an ice-cold bath might affect their health materially. Doubt was expressed by members of the church whether the converts were made true Mormons by the warm-water process.

The Latter Day Saints have about 100 members here now. A crusade for more is to be started in the State next week.

DYSPEPSIA, GAS, HEARTBURN AND ALL MISERY IN YOUR STOMACH VANISHES.

Take your sour, out-of-order stomach—or maybe you call it Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter — take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there's left any trace of your former misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness or many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle, and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself in five minutes that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a little Diapepsin. * * *

WHAT MR. DOOLEY SAID IS SECRET OF FAIR ACCUSER

Board Clears Policeman After Girl Intimates What He Told Papa.

Just what Patrolman Joseph Dooley said to the family of Abraham Hyman did not develop during the two hours spent by the Board of Police Commissioners in hearing the evidence, but, according to the final decision, whatever he did say was not, in the Board's opinion, ungentlemanly.

Hyman, who with his wife and daughter resides at 2002 Division street, had filed an affidavit against Dooley alleging the patrolman had used shorter and uglier words in addressing the Hyman family. Miss Nora Hyman undertook to tell the Police Commissioners of Dooley's conduct.

"He came to our house at 1 o'clock in the morning and told papa the sewer in our backyard was overflowing," said Miss Hymann, "but, of course, he didn't say it just like that."

"What did he say?" asked President Laird.

"He said 'Come out in the yard you so-and-so and see how the water is running all over the place,' but he used different language," testified Miss Hyman.

"What happened then?" asked the president.

"Well, papa went out to the yard with him and Policeman Dooley said 'Why don't you shut off that water?' but he didn't use those words exactly," said the witness.

Not a Professional Plumber.

"Anything else?"

"Well, papa said he couldn't turn the water off because he was no professional plumber, and Dooley said he didn't know why papa couldn't turn it off, but that isn't the way he said it."

Miss Hyman settled back in the witness chair as though she had concluded her testimony.

"Is that all he said?"

"Well, no, not exactly," she replied. "He told papa that if he did not shut off the water he would report him to the Board of Health, but he said it in a different way than I am saying it."

After Abraham Hyman had spent an uncomfortable half hour trying to tell the board what the patrolman had said to him, Dooley began a cross-examination.

Couldn't Recall a Fine.

"Do you remember the time Judge Tracy fined your wife for beating Patrolman Gahen?" asked Dooley.

"How could I remember a little thing like that?" replied Hyman. "Maybe he did and maybe he didn't. I don't worry about such small matters."

Several patrolmen testified to the character of Hyman. They said he bore a reputation for being a policeman fighter.

After Patrolman William S. Pritchard produced two witnesses who said they saw him at Broadway and Morgan street at the time he was alleged to have insulted Mrs. Catherine Collins at Sixth street and Lucas avenue the patrolman was found not guilty of unbecoming conduct.

Patrolman Henry S. Dawson, charged with unbecoming conduct and leaving his beat, was found guilty and dismissed from the force. He sent in his resignation and was not present at the hearing of the charges.

After he had refused to resign at the request of the Board of Police Commissioners, Patrolman Thomas Cuddihee was found guilty of mental incapacity and dropped from the rolls.

Drs. Walter C. G. Kirchner of the City Hospital and A. C. Robinson, police surgeon, testified that while Cuddihee had improved greatly since an injury on his head had made a brain operation necessary, he would not be fit for duty as a policeman.

Cuddihee's injury was due to a blow from a negro whom he had arrested for burglary. He will be re-instated when he recovers, Col. Laird says.

SIX POLICEMEN IN LOSING FIGHT WITH ONE WOMAN

She Yields When She Sees Chance to Ride in Automobile Patrol Wagon.

How much cream and milk will compensate a cook for her evening out?

Mrs. M. A. Sherry of 5670 Von Verzen avenue, thinks a pit of cream and a quart of milk too much. It was perfectly safe for Mrs. Sherry if she had only continued just to think, but unfortunately Mrs. Sherry said what she thought to her cook, Mary Hugher. Half a minute later Mrs. Sherry had fled from her home with her 4-year-old son in her arms, while ten minutes later six policemen from the Page Boulevard Police Station were endeavoring to allay Mary's indignation.

The happy circumstance that saved the situation for Mrs. Sherry and the police was the fact that in the Page district they have an automobile patrol. Up to the time that Mary set eyes on the auto-patrol she had continued unabated a fierce assault on the uniforms of six policemen.

"Take me in a patrol wagon, will you?" asked Mary as she took the last brass button from the coat of Patrolman Harry Leonard. Then she sighted the auto.

Willing to Ride in Auto.

"Well, I don't mind riding down to the station house in that," said Mary, "but mind now, I won't stay."

And Mary didn't stay. Mrs. Sherry arrived while the police were still listening to the poor opinion Mary had of them and announced that she had no intention of prosecuting Mary if she would promise not to go back to the house. Mrs. Sherry said there wouldn't have been any trouble at all if Mary had only left enough cream for the breakfast.

Made Terrifying Threats.

"Didn't I come home at 7 o'clock when I had the whole evening off?" asked Mary.

"I'll fry your heart for breakfast," was the statement of Mary that terrified Mrs. Sherry. And when she added, Mrs. Sherry says, that she'd "put Robert in a stew," Mrs. Sherry picked up the boy and fled.

Mrs. Sherry met Policeman Leonard in the street. Leonard went back to the house and after a short confab with Mary telephoned to the station for help. A second policeman arrived and, after sizing up the chances decided to turn in a riot call. At the station Saturday it was announced that all six uniforms could be repaired.

MRS. FORD TO KNOW OUTCOME OF BLACKMAIL TRIAL TODAY

One More Speech, Judge's Charge to Jury and Verdict All That Remains of Case.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 5.—Mrs. Jeannette Steward Ford, on trial charged with blackmailing Charles L. Warriner, former local treasurer of the Big Four Railway, probably will know her fate before another day has passed.

All that remains to bring the sensational case to a close is the closing argument of the attorney for the defense, the Judge's charge to the jury and the latter's verdict.

The State concluded its case yesterday and William Thorndyke of counsel for the defense, began his closing argument. He will conclude this morning, after which Judge Swing will deliver his charge to the jury.

FREE LETTERS FOR ROOSEVELT

Unusual Honor Proposed for the Former President.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Representative Hamilton Fish of New York has introduced a bill according to Theodore Roosevelt the postal franking privilege for life. No similar courtesy has ever been extended to an ex-President.

The bill was referred to the Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads. Mrs. Cleveland and Mrs. Harrison, widows of former presidents, have the franking privilege.

SOCIETY MAN'S EYE KNOCKED OUT

Removed at Hospital After Accident at Racquet Courts.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Walter Farwell, only son of the late United States Senator Charles B. Farwell, suffered the loss of his left eye last night as a result of an accident at the racquet courts of the University Club. He met with the mishap while attempting to return the ball, which caromed off a wall. He struck at it, but missed.

It struck him a glancing blow in the eye, and also bruised his face. He was operated upon at the Henrotin Hospital.

Farwell has made his home recently at Channing, Tex., where he has been manager of the large Farwell ranch.

BY THE AUTHOR OF SATAN SANDERSON

THE KINGDOM OF SLENDER SWORDS

A NEW NOVEL By HALLIE ERMINIE RIVES

Hallie Erminie Rives, whose romances have proved among the most popular ever issued in this country, has now written a glowing, passionate story of Americans in Japan today.

In dramatic power, in the sweep of the love story, and in vividness of personal characterization it far surpasses her previous successes, "Hearts Courageous", "Satan Sanderson", etc.

DISCRIMINATION WINS !!!

In every walk in life discrimination between the true and the false wins and enjoys success. In questions of form, of style and of values, whether financial, commercial or medicinal, the judgement of the men and women who select and appreciate and utilize the true and genuine product, proves most profitable and most satisfactory to themselves and to all who follow them.

Therefore, in connection with so important a subject as the physical well-being of the people, the most eminent physicians insist on full information as to the wholesome nature and truly beneficial character of the component parts of the remedies used and prescribed by them, and the wise manufacturer not only supplies them with the knowledge desired, but also combines for them in proper proportions the very substances most approved by them and omits every objectionable substance. The world-wide acceptance of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna by physicians and the well-informed of the world, as the best of family laxatives, is due to the universal satisfaction which it has given for more than a quarter of a century and also to the fact that it is a remedy of known quality and known component parts and to the further fact that the California Fig Syrup Co. presents it to the world simply as the ideal strengthening personal laxative to cleanse and sweeten the system gently, yet effectually, and to dispel colds and headaches and to assist in overcoming constipation. To get its beneficial effects—always buy the original and genuine, for sale by all leading druggists. The full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co.—is always plainly printed on the front of every package.

PROHIBITION IN JASPER.

The prohibition wave which broke against Joplin's zinc-bound coast, receded only to gather new strength. Thursday it overwhelmed Carthage, Webb City, Carterville and 12 other towns in Jasper County. If the people of these towns desire to experiment and test the efficiency of such a law, the people of the cities are willing that they should. Apparently the prohibition sentiment is strong in rural places. It may even be possible under favorable circumstances to secure an enforcement of the law which will produce the dryness the majority desires.

But, in large cities, even in large cities as small as Joplin, there is vigorous objection to prohibition and more vigorous objection to prohibition as the product of the votes by persons in other places. In the cities friends of law, order, temperance and decency can find in enforced submission to no-license decrees only retrogression. The outcome is always demoralizing and equally disastrous. Lid clubs, speakeasies, blind pigs and bootleggers are some of the terms which prohibition has contributed to the enrichment of the language. All convey in semi-humorous language the idea that prohibition is as futile practically as it is an invasion of personal rights theoretically.

But it would be wise for the people of Missouri who cherish the principle of personal liberty to take notice that the prohibition wave is still rolling.

The worst excuse for the illegal track permit is that the railroads could not get legal permission to lay tracks without "greasing" the Municipal Assembly. The organs and advocates of the Terminal defend its illegal privileges on the ground that the Municipal Assembly was corrupt. This plea that boodling justifies lawbreaking is vicious. As a matter of fact the corrupt combines in the Municipal Assembly were created by the political influence of franchise-grabbing public service corporations.

STANDPAT FREE TRADE.

Referring to the jubilant note in the report of the Bureau of Statistics that never was the percentage of duty-free importations so high as under the "best ever" Payne law, we find that by increasing the duty on dutiable commodities still more, and so further curtailing importations, the percentage of free goods could be made greater still.

In fact, if present rates of duty were doubled the only goods imported would be those in the free list and we would have, for statistical purposes, 100 per cent of all goods imported coming in free. Thus the standpatters are paving the way for their kind of free trade.

Is "Back from Elba" the password of the Roosevelt Republican revolutionist? Gov. Deneen used the phrase and is hailed as "one of us."

FUTILE BOOKKEEPING.

Disclosures made in the trial of a woman for blackmail in Cincinnati are to the effect that the treasury of the Big Four Railroad was robbed by three local treasurers in succession. The frauds thus carried on by one official after another, lasted for years. The total amount of money stolen was upwards of half a million. Exposure resulted only when a quarrel broke out between two women who it is charged had a knowledge of the frauds and levied blackmail by way of obtaining a share of the loot.

A similar state of things is disclosed in a trial in Chicago where a railroad is suing three men for alleged frauds to an extent of more than $800,000. The defense in that case is that the missing money was used as a "slush fund" to obtain favors from State and from city officials. The defense may or may not be valid. The essential point is that the alleged frauds covered a long period of time and a sum approximating a million of dollars was taken before they were discovered or even suspected.

The extraordinary feature of these robberies, is that they are so very ordinary. Never a week passes but what we have to chronicle extensive robberies from a railroad or a bank or an insurance company, or some other kind of a business corporation. Embezzlement seems indeed to be growing into something like a business instinct. It is doubtful if there is any big industry in the country that is not sapped by big [illegible]. There seems to be no system of bookkeeping that can check a bookkeeper, no method of accounting that can bring an accountant to account. Rarely does an exposure occur that is not due to accident or to quarrels among the [illegible]. Business methods sadly need reforming.

It is hardly necessary for Emma Goldman to [illegible] she is not a suffragette; she had already [illegible] notice that she wishes revolution, not reform, and would rather fight than vote.

OBSTACLES TO ST. LOUIS' PROGRESS.

Supporters of the city's rights and interests in the battle for the total abolition of the bridge and terminal arbitrary need not be discouraged that big shippers and representatives of powerful interests are defending the Terminal Association's monopoly charges and advocating its cause as a monopoly. This has characterized every battle with the Terminal combine.

In every fight against bridge tolls and the graft juggle of the Terminal corporation the same men, the same interests and potent influences have been ranged on the side of the railroad combine. The same arguments have been used.

When the Post-Dispatch fought the Terminal loop bill and demanded that the deadly arbitrary be abolished; that St. Louis be put on the railroad map, and that the railroads issue St. Louis bills of lading with West side deliveries, the same big shippers and financiers used the same pitiful arguments in behalf of the Terminal monopoly. They protested that the Post-Dispatch's fight for St. Louis rights would drive the railroads out of St. Louis and ruin the city. They argued that the arbitrary was not a disadvantage to St. Louis and that the East side terminus was a blessing. They urged that subservience to the railroad terminal combine was the only solution for St. Louis.

The directorate of the World's Fair, with President Francis at their head, urged the passage of the loop bill without any of the concessions demanded by the Post-Dispatch, and predicted that the defeat of the bill would wreck the World's Fair and permanently injure St. Louis. These leading business men then defended practices and charges of the Terminal combine which have since been universally condemned and abolished.

It was not until the battle was won after years of struggle and the railroads absorbed the through arbitrary, yielded the St. Louis bill of lading and put St. Louis on the map, that the leading business men admitted the justice of the Post-Dispatch's demands.

In every fight for St. Louis rights against the railroad combine, the cowardly organs of the interests have made the whining plea that the exposure and denunciation of railroad discriminations against St. Louis would damage the city. They have urged citizens to submit to extortion in order that no publicity may be given to the oppressive and dishonest practices of the railroads.

What a silly, pitiful plea for a great city! But it is not sillier than the warning of some timid merchants that the railroads will place an embargo on St. Louis if their demands, no matter how unreasonable, are not conceded and if their methods and charges, no matter how oppressive, are resisted.

The traffic of St. Louis is worth far more to the railroads than the Terminal combine graft. The railroads need St. Louis. They are merely holding to the graft as long as St. Louis submits.

Every victory that has been won for St. Louis against railroad oppression and public utility greed has been won despite the opposition of the allied big interests.

The representatives of these interests are shortsighted. In standing for personal and immediate gain they oppose the public welfare, which in the long run represents all interests. Injury to St. Louis as a whole damages every interest in St. Louis.

The Post-Dispatch is fighting the battle of all the people of St. Louis against the personal special interests of the privileged few. We are trying to advance the interests of the whole city regardless of special interests.

The fear of shedding a little commercial blood, of losing a little temporary privilege, advantage or gain, on the part of the big shippers and the financiers, is now and has been in the past the greatest obstacle to St. Louis progress.

The timidity and shortsightedness of the bankers and leading business men have done more to prolong conditions inimical to the city's growth and to check municipal advancement than any other factors.

When all the business men of St. Louis, large and small, get together for common rights and interests to enforce the conditions that make for the growth and the prosperity of the whole city St. Louis will enter upon a record-breaking era.

Being treasurer of the Big Four Railroad is doubtless all that prevented Charles L. Warriner from becoming a conspicuous member of the St. Louis police ring.

THERE IS A REASON.

Senator Carter in presenting his bill for the establishment of postal savings banks quoted this saying of Gladstone in a speech in the House of Commons in 1888. "The postoffice savings bank is the most important institution which has been created in the last 50 years for the welfare of the people and the state. I consider the act of 1861 which called the institution into existence, as the most useful and fruitful of my long career."

Other statesmen have shared the opinion of Gladstone. They have followed in his footsteps. Postal savings banks exist in every country in Europe. They have been established in all the British colonies. They are to be found in Asia and in Africa and in the islands of the sea. We have set up postal savings banks in the Philippines. There is a demand for them in the Canal Zone of Panama. They flourish in such places as Sierra Leone, Tunis, and the Straits Settlements. There is not one in the United States.

Congress has been repeatedly urged to establish such banks. Postmaster-General Creswell recommended it under President Grant in 1871. It was recommended since by Postmasters-General Maynard in 1880, James in 1881, Howe in 1882, Gary in 1887, Wanamaker in 1889, Meyer in 1907, and by Hitchcock under the present administration. A bill providing for postal banks was presented to Congress as far back as 1873. Since then 79 similar bills have been presented. But everyone of them was defeated. There is a reason. Ask the privileged bankers that contribute to the Republican campaign funds.

Richard Achilles Ballinger is to have a private attorney, Mr. Wickersham continuing to serve as general counsel only.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Carmody on Saloon Regulation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

After 52 years of selling liquor and still in the business, I have come to the conclusion that the best way to combat prohibition arguments and further the interests of those who would engage in the business for a livelihood are the following propositions:

First: High license. This would give us a good class of saloons and a good class of proprietors—men who would obey the law and make the business more respectable, and also sell a better class of goods, it being to their interest to do so.

Second: Regulation. Dramshops always have been and always will be regulated by the authorities, and the only proper thing for the dramshop keeper is to obey the laws as they are laid down by the authorities. If they say open at 6 a. m. and close at 12 p. m., obey the law; if they say close Sunday—"close."

Drastic law enforcement came a good deal on account of the saloon keeper himself. I mean, of course, the law-breaking individual, who was generally an irresponsible person. High license would do away with that kind of people, and the best elements and authorities could soon control the situation.

Third: Fairness to saloon keeper. When a man with the consent and indorsement of the property holders in a block enters the business and invests $10,000 or $15,000 in fitting up a first-class place, and getting his lease for a number of years, he should not be compelled to ask signatures of resident taxpayers to sign every year. The saloon keeper ought to be protected to this extent; that so long as he kept an orderly and well-regulated house he should not have to ask signatures. This would make a saloon lease a valuable asset, and in case of sale his successor ought to have the license transferred without extra cost.

These rules, I think, if followed, would do more good for the future dramshop keepers and the public than all the arguments as to whether Christ turned water into wine or whether Abe Lincoln sold whisky or not.

Municipal Dance Halls.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

It is good news that the New York City Park Commission will establish municipal dance halls, where the young people can dance without being subjected to the temptations so often found in private dance halls. It is a step in the right direction. Dancing is one of the most delightful and harmless of amusements, if properly conducted, and the young people ought to have plenty of it without being obliged to enter traps for the innocent. In course of time we shall see that communities can and ought to provide all kinds of wholesome entertainment for their members. Such provision would go far toward decreasing crime, improving health and morals, and making life worth living.

"On An Equal Footing."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

"The holding capacity of a trolley car might be considerably increased by taking out the seats altogether. This is not expert suggestion, but it seems so reasonable and mathematically correct that we submit it to the experts for consideration," you say editorially. There is more in this suggestion than that of holding capacity. The cars will be cheaper; it will be cheaper to clean them; the seat hog will be something of the past; the conventional courtesy to women in the street cars will be lost, together with the farce in it; we will be on an equal footing; we will hang together; we will save the entra nickel we spend, as well as time, taking a car going in our wrong direction to get a seat in that car going in our right direction; we will not stand on a corner catching cold waiting to get a seat in some next car; we will not read the newspapers in the cars, increasing bad feelings when there by what we there see about it, etc. We may be tempted to impatience, swearing or something, but the railway company may as before be equal to the occasion and hypnotize and subdue us with the help of the world, the flesh and the devil, the courts, the system, the voters, its better compliance than ours with the economic law, the laws of combination, solidarity and irresistible progress; the increasing inability of the Government authorities to know, to find out or do anything to better conditions, by hook and by crook, and what not. However we may look at it, what you suggest is a measure of progress, it being evident that we need more oppression before we understand, desire and introduce the reasonable condition for human existence and relations which the Co-operative Commonwealth will bring.
SIXTY.

Forty-Seven Applicants; One Job.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I make a motion that our "Million Population Club" go out of existence, if it means the getting of more laboring men in our city. We don't need them; there are enough of them now wearing out shoe leather and sidewalks hunting something to do, so they may earn the price of a chuck steak or a loaf of bread. It is said that too much gold is the cause of the high prices. I haven't spied any of it yet, and I know of 47 other men who have no more than the laws allow. The 47 I speak of had answered an ad which appeared in your paper; about three of them got work, I presume. Then the "Million Club" wishes to add more to this large army of unemployed. Don't overdo the thing, St. Louis; don't fly up on prosperity's back fence and crow until you get the fence, or you may land on your fool cranium and break your neck. And as long as it is about the same way all over the United States, I may say the same thing of Uncle Sam. Don't whistle to the foreign dogs until you can feed your own.

I am not knocking my country or my town. I am proud of my country and glad that I am an American; it is a grand old country, and a grand old town, in a grand old State; but something must be done so the laboring man can feed his family. H. E. R.

French Recipes to Down Food Trust?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I read the Archbishop Ireland have the French to live with such a great economy. In recipes of the French cooking do you find such? I think not so. Many of French have come here; is there such a saving for them in the high prices and the cold storages fixed like for seven years of Canness?

I think maybe a great waste there might be in banquets that so often the great persons go to more than in homes where the children eat what is left. Always those with much eating know that it is good for poor to be hungry like out of fullness of stomach the mouth speak.

Sometimes persons are afraid the millionaires will not get to be billionaires and sometimes it is just to be the merchant of the hot air.
A FRENCH LADY.

THE GOAT.

WOMAN'S ATHLETIC PROGRESS.

From the New York World.

A time is foreseen by Harvard's physical director when women as a result of their devotion to athletics will overtake man in physical development.

By grace of tennis, golf, horseback riding, swimming, and through gymnasium training young women who have leisure for such pursuits have greatly improved their physique within a generation. Yet the progress made, Dr. Sargeant thinks, is only the beginning. Fashion, freedom from worry, and other causes are all helping a development which will eventually make woman man's physical equal, if not his superior.

Given woman's attainment of physical superiority, will she temper her rule with mercy? Will she love, comfort and cherish him in return for centuries of masculine chivalry while her sex remained subject? Or will she emphasize man's inferiority, as in the case of the lower orders of life in which the female dominates?

THE BITER BITTEN.

From the Washington Post.

The egg combine proves to be the most vulnerable point in the conspiracy to keep up prices, as is seen in the collapse of the New York market. Speculators in cold storage eggs have lost some $2,000,000 as a result and they are pressed hard to meet their obligations with the banks which advanced them money on warehouse receipts. Eggs have dropped 15 cents a dozen since the boycott was declared and are selling out of the warehouses at a loss of $1 on every box. Last season immense profits rewarded the big dealers who hoarded the available supply and waited till the hens had gone on the usual cold weather strike. Their success led many others to go into the gamble this year, and though the price of eggs soared higher than last year, yet many held out for still better figures.

BELGIUM HAS NO NAVY.

From the Indianapolis News.

Belgium is, perhaps, the most prosperous state in Europe, as well as the most thickly settled. The late king's reign was at least marked by an enormous advance in wealth and social reform. One of the country's special advantages is that its international neutralization permits it to dispense with a navy, while the Belgian army is maintained on a very small and inexpensive basis.

ALIENS REJECTED.

From the Chicago Examiner.

There have been rejected at the United States ports during the past year 10,411 aliens, or about 1.09 per cent of the total number applying for admission. During the year 2124 warrants of deportation were executed after the granting of hearings to the arrested aliens, compared with 2069 executed during the previous year.

A KENTUCKY OPINION, TOO.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Mr. Hobbs of Mississippi, who drew his revolver, but returned it to his pocket when he found that his antagonist was unarmed, proved himself a gentleman, whereas he'd merely have been a marksman or a target if the other man had "drawn."

EXCLUSIVE.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

A police officer, recently deceased, for 15 years had charge of the Wall street district, during which time, it is stated, not so much as a ten-cent piece was stolen there by an "outsider." The street extends privileges only to the insiders.

JUST A MINUTE.

Written for the Post-Dispatch by Clark McAdams.

WHITE HOUSE SONG.

(Mr. Taft is lonely in the White House. He complains that nobody drops in.—News.)

IT'S dull around the White House. Nobody ever comes
The way they did when Roosevelt was there;
There's nothing left for Mr. Taft to do but roll his thumbs
And wonder why nobody seems to care.
There used to be a crowd around from morning until night,
And when they heard the dinner bell there used to be a fight
To see who sat upon his left and who upon his right,
But nothing like that happens any more—

For when the bell rings now, only Bill goes in;
You should see him tuck his napkin underneath his double chin.
He's a lonesome man, and his sad Ho-Hums!
Are enough to move an idol—for nobody ever comes.

It's quiet at the White House. They never stand in line
The way they used to do to get at Ted;
It's pretty hard for Mr. Taft to bring him to resign
The thought that everybody must be dead.
There used to be a solid chain of humankind that ran
Within the door, revolving round that interesting man,
And here a link was Tom or Dick, and here another Dan,
But nothing like that happens any more—

For when the bell rings now, everybody sits tight;
It's a cinch it is an agent that the dog forgot to bite.
He's a lonesome man, and his sad Ho-Hums!
Are enough to move an idol—for nobody ever comes.

It's slow around the White House. It's not a kind of zoo,
The way it was with Roosevelt in charge;
There's only one conclusion his successor can come to,
And that of course is that he is too large.
There used to be a sort of wild and woolly Western troupe,
With now and then the President to join them in a whoop,
And men in guns and flowing hair sat out upon the stoop,
But nothing like that happens any more—

For when the bell rings now, it is not rung by a gun;
It's nothing but a tramp who wants some coffee and a bun.
He's a lonesome man, and his sad Ho-Hums!
Are enough to move an idol—for noboby ever comes.

EUROPEAN VERSION.
There is an American born every minute.

RED ROSE.—In any drug store you may find a directory in which there is some one with a name the same as your own. Return to the postoffice any letter that is not yours.

GROUNDHOG.—Cement for India rubber: Carbon-bisulphide, 5 ounces; gutta percha, 5 drams; India rubber, 10 drams; fish glue, 25 drams. Rubber stores sell rubber cement.

S. L.—Some take sassafras tea and some mix sulphur and molasses for blood medicine. Pure air, simple and moderate diet, with sufficient exercise and good, regular habits will keep your blood right.

PAINTER.—White paint for house: Priming coat, white lead and linseed oil. Second coat—two pounds white lead, six pints linseed oil, two pints turpentine, one pound litharge will cover about 100 square yards.

MATILDA.—Missouri grounds for divorce: Felony, absence one year, habitual drunkenness one year, cruelty, indignities, vagrancy, former existing marriage, physical incapacity, conviction of felony prior to marriage unknown to other party.

MRS. SMITH.—We cannot say what magazine or publishing house would accept or read poems. You can only send them to the magazine publishing house of the kind you write. News stands and book stores will show you magazines or lists of them.

CONSTANT.—Red veins in the nose mean a slight congestion of the little blood vessels. Make ointment of dram powdered sulphur, 2½ drams powdered starch, 1½ ounces oxide of zinc, and a few drops oil geranium. Apply every night, and be careful to leave off rich foods and pastries.

W. E. M.—For dull finish, to furniture use flat varnish, to be had at paint store; or rub down gloss varnish with pumice stone. Furniture polish: Two parts linseed oil to one part kerosene make a furniture polish or cleaner. Apply with soft flannel cloth. Wood should afterward be rubbed with a clean cloth. Care must be used that plenty of clean cloths are used. Frequent using of one cloth will simply rub the dust into the wood.

COOK.—Buckwheat cakes: Pour two cups scalded milk over one-third cup fine bread-crumbs, cover, and let stand 30 minutes; add half teaspoon salt, one-fourth yeast cake dissolved in half cup lukewarm water and enough buckwheat flour to make a batter thin enough to pour, the quantity required being about one and three-fourths cupfuls. Cover and let rise overnight. In morning stir well, and add 1 tablespoon molasses and ¼ teaspoon soda dissolved in ¼ cup lukewarm water. Cook same as other griddle cakes, and serve with butter and syrup. Save enough batter to raise another mixing, instead of using yeast cake; about half cup will be required.

ART-Z.—Old articles of vulcanized rubber are first "devulcanized" by grinding, boiling with caustic soda and washing thoroughly. After drying, the scraps are heated to 302 degrees Fahrenheit with linseed oil in a kettle provided with stirring mechanism which is kept in continual motion. When the rubber has dissolved, a quantity of natural or coal tar asphalt is added and as soon as the contents of the kettle have become well mixed, the temperature is raised so high that dense fumes begin to rise and air is forced through the mass until a cooled sample shows the desired consistence. This composition being very tough and flexible, forms an excellent covering for electric cables. It finds many other uses, the proportions of rubber, asphalt and oil being varied in accordance with [illegible]

By W. H. JAMES.

Woe is me!

Nature abhors me. I am a vacuum.

I am even like unto a doughnut from which the rim has been removed.

I could pass through the eye of a cambric needle and be out of sight of steel on both sides.

I wouldn't make a splash in 2 cents' worth of rosewater.

If an atom fell from a second-story window and struck me on the head it would fracture my skull.

There isn't room on me for a microbe to light.

I could curl up and go to sleep on the conscience of a trust magnate.

I could butt my brains out against a dessicated sunbeam.

If a protoplasm ran over me it would mash me flatter than a pancake.

The swish of a comet's tail eight billion miles away would fan me out of the solar system.

Yea. Woe is me!

I am even smaller than the soul of a Beef Baron.

FARMERS' RICE.

Wash one-half pint of rice, boil and drain it. Slice six hard-boiled eggs. Make a sauce by rubbing together two tablespoons of butter and two tablespoons of flour. To this add one-half pint of milk and boil. Add salt and pepper. Put a layer of rice in the bottom of a baking dish, then a layer of sliced eggs. Cover with the butter and flour sauce. Continue these layers until all of the ingredients are used, having a layer of the sauce on top. Dust with bread crumbs and bake 20 minutes.

POTATOES O'BRIEN.

Chop fine one-half of a green sweet pepper. Add four whole peeled potatoes and a half teaspoon of salt. Pour melted butter over the mixture. Place over the fire in a shallow frying pan. When the potatoes begin to brown, stir them so that they may be evenly cooked. Serve on a heated dish. The potatoes may be sliced if preferred.

A Novel of AMERICAN SPIRIT
By EMERSON HOUGH

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

The story is told by Nicholas Trist, secretary to John C. Calhoun, the great pro-slavery statesman. Calhoun, accepting the post of Secretary of State in Tyler's Cabinet, announces that the closing years of his life will be devoted to annexing Texas and Oregon. He decides to enlist the diplomatic aid of Baroness de Ritz, who is known to have great influence with Sir Richard Pakenham, the British Minister to the United States. Through her he hopes to learn whether England will oppose annexation of the Western states. He sends Trist to the Baroness and she has a midnight conference with Calhoun. On the day Trist is to marry Elisabeth Churchill he receives orders to go to Canada on state business. Through a drunken blunder of Jack Dandridge, the Baroness' slipper is taken to Elisabeth as Trist's wedding gift. She refuses to marry him. He goes to Canada and there finds the Baroness in conference with British diplomats. She invites him to her Montreal home and he goes there at her request, though puzzled, he remains as her guest and guardian. Trist tries to obtain from her what she knows about England's designs on Texas and Oregon. She hints that she will tell him if he will tell her whether he and Elisabeth were married. He refuses and she angrily dismisses him. In Montreal he meets Prof. von Rittenhofen, a German scientist, who has lived five years in Oregon, and who promises to be a valuable aid in solving the diplomatic mystery. The professor agrees to return to Washington with him. Going to his room, Trist finds that the Baroness' slipper has been stolen from his dressing case. He hurries to her apartments and finds them empty and dismantled. Calhoun orders Trist to go to Oregon and aid in forestalling the efforts of the English to seize that territory. Calhoun enlists the aid of Senora Lucrezia Yturrio, wife of the Mexican Ambassador, and arouses her jealousy of the Baroness. Trist, after vainly seeking reconciliation with Elizabeth, goes to Oregon. There he finds the Baroness installed in a sumptuously furnished cabin. The Baroness returns to Washington. Trist follows and finds her again in the home where he first met her. He discovers that she is the daughter of Prof. von Rittenhofen. Pakenham comes to visit the Baroness and Trist hides. Helena von Ritz tells Trist her strange life-story and reveals to him that Pakenham is to visit her that night to claim his price for signing a treaty ceding Oregon to the United States. She shows the treaty to Trist and in his rage tears it to pieces. The Baroness continues her story of how she was persecuted by the nobility because her mother was a peasant and how she fled to America. Trist breaks and tramples under foot Pakenham's key to the Baroness' apartments. The Baroness, in a stormy scene, repulses Pakenham, but induces him to again sign a treaty giving Oregon to the United States.

CHAPTER XXXV.

The Proxy of Pakenham.

A man cannot possess anything that is better than a good woman, nor anything that is worse than a bad one.—Simonides.

WHEN I reached the central part of the city, I did not hasten thence to Elmhurst Mansion. Instead, I returned to my hotel. I did not now care to see any of my friends or even to take up matters of business with my chief. It is not for me to tell what feelings came to me when I left Helena von Ritz.

It was mid-morning of the following day when finally I once more sought out Mr. Calhoun.

He had not expected me, but received me gladly. It seemed that he had gone on about his own plans and his own methods. "The Senora Yturrio is doing me the honor of an early morning call," he began. "She is with my daughter in another part of the house. As there is a matter of some importance to come up, I shall ask you to attend."

He despatched a servant, and presently the lady mentioned joined us. She was a pleasing picture enough in her robe of black laces and sulphur-colored silks, but her face was none too happy, and her eyes, it seemed to me, bore traces either of unrest or tears.

"Now, it gives us the greatest regret, my dear Senora," began Mr. Calhoun, "to have General Almonte and your husband return to their own country. We have valued their presence here very much, and I regret the disruption of the friendly relations between our countries."

"My country is ruined," said she. "Also, Senor, I am ruined. I have no means of life. I have not even money to secure my passage home. That Senor Van Zandt—"

"Yes, Van Zandt did much for us, through your agency, Senora. We have benefited by that, and I therefore regret he proved faithless to you personally. I am sorry to tell you that he has signified his wish to join our army against your country. I hear also that your late friend, Mr. Polk, has forgotten most of his promises to you."

"Him I hate also!" she broke out. "He broke his promise to Senor Van Zandt, to my husband, to me!"

Calhoun smiled in his grim fashion. "I am not surprised to hear all that, my dear lady, for you but point out a known characteristic of that gentleman. He has made me many promises which he has forgotten, and offered me even of late distinguished honors which he never meant me to accept. But, since I have been personally responsible for many of these things which have gone forward, I wish to make what personal amends I can; and ever I shall thank you for the good which you have done to this country."

"But I am poor, I have nothing!" she rejoined.

"My dear Senora," said John Calhoun, becoming less formal and more kindly, "you shall have funds sufficient to make you comfortable at least for a time after your return to Mexico. I am not authorized to draw upon our exchequer, and you, of course, must prefer all secrecy in these matters. I regret that my personal fortune is not so large as it might be, but, in such measure as I may, I shall assist you, because I know you need assistance. In return, you must leave this country. The flag is down which once floated over the house of Mexico here."

She hid her face behind her fan, and Calhoun turned aside.

"Senora, have you ever seen this slipper?" he asked, suddenly placing upon the table the little shoe which for a purpose I had brought with me and meantime thrown upon the table.

She flashed a dark look, and did not speak.

"One night, some time ago, your husband pursued a lady across this town to get possession of that very slipper and its contents! There was in the toe of that little shoe a message. As you know, we got from it certain information, and therefore devised certain plans, which you have helped us to carry out. Now, as perhaps you have had some personal animus against the other lady in these same complicated affairs, I have taken the liberty of sending a special messenger to ask her presence here this morning. I should like you two to meet, and if possible, to part with friendship."

I looked suddenly at Mr. Calhoun. It seemed he was planning without my aid.

"Yes," he said to me, smiling, "I have neglected to mention to you that the Baroness von Ritz also is here, in another apartment of this place. If you please, I shall now send for her also."

He signaled to his old negro attendant. Presently the latter opened the door, and with a deep bow announced the Barones von Ritz, who entered, followed closely by Mr. Calhoun's inseparable friend, old Dr. Ward.

The difference in breeding between these two women was to be seen at a glance. The Dona Lucrezia was beautiful in a way, but lacked the thoroughbred quality which comes in the highest types of womanhood. On the other hand, Helena von Ritz, who had lived tragedy all her life, and was now in the climax of such tragedy, was smiling and debonaire as though she had never been anything but wholly content with life! She was robed now in some light filmy green material, caught up here and there on the shoulders and secured with silken knots. Her white neck showed, her arms were partly bare with the short sleeves of the time. She stood, composed and easy, a figure fit for any company or any court.

"I interrupt you, gentlemen," she began.

"On the contrary, I am sure, my dear lady," said Dr. Ward, "Senator Calhoun told me he wished you to meet Senora Yturrio."

"Yes," resumed Calhoun, "I was was just speaking with this lady over some matters concerned with this little slipper." He smiled as he held it up gingerly between thumb and finger. "Do you recognize it, Madam Baroness?"

"Ah, my little shoe!" she exclaimed. "But see, it has not been well cared for."

"It traveled in my war bag from Oregon to Washington," said I. "Perhaps bullet molds and powder flasks may have damaged it."

"It still would serve as a little postoffice, perhaps," laughed the baroness. "But I thinks its days are done on such errands."

"I will explain something of these errands to the Senora Yturrio," said Calhoun. "I wish you personally to say to that lady, if you will, that Senor Yturrio regarded this little receptacle rather as official than personal post."

For one moment these two women looked at each other, with that on their faces which would be hard to describe. At last the baroness spoke:

"It is not wholly my fault, Senora Yturrio, if your husband gave you cause to think there was more than diplomacy between us. At least, I can say to you that it was the sport of it alone, the intrigue, if you please, which interested me. I trust you will not excuse me beyond this."

A stifled exclamation came from the Dona Lucrezia. I have never seen more sadness nor yet more hatred on a human face than hers displayed. "Adios!" said she. "I go."

Mr. Calhoun gravely offered her an arm and so with a rustle of her silks there passed from our lives one unhappy lady who helped to make our map for us.

The baroness herself turned. "I ought not to remain," she hesitated.

"Madam," said Mr. Calhoun, "we cannot spare you yet."

She flashed upon him a keen look. "It is a young country," said she, "but it raises statesmen. You foolish, dear Americans! One could have loved you all."

"Eh, what?" said Dr. Ward turning to her. "My dear lady, two of us are too old for that; and as for the other—"

He did not know how hard this chance remark might smite, but as usual Helena von Ritz was brave and smiling.

"You are men," said she, "such as we do not have in our courts of Europe. Men and women—that is what this country produces."

"Madam," said Calhoun, "I myself am a very poor sort of man. I am old, and I fall from month to month. I cannot live long, at best. What you see in me is simply a purpose—a purpose to accomplish something for my country—a purpose which my country itself does not desire to see fulfilled. Republics do not reward us."

"Would you like Oregon?" she asked, looking at him with the full glance of her dark eyes.

"More than my life! More than the life of myself and all my friends and family! More than all my fortune!" His voice rang clear and keen as that of youth.

"All of Oregon?" she asked.

"All? We do not own all! Perhaps we do not deserve it. Surely we could not expect it. Why, if we got one-half of what that fellow Polk is claiming, we should do well enough—that is more than we deserve or could expect. With our army already at war on the Southwest, England, as we all know, is planning to take advantage of our helplessness in Oregon."

Without further answer, she held out to him a document whose appearance I, at least, recognized.

"I am but a woman," she said, "but it chances that I have been able to do this country perhaps something of a favor. Your assistant, Mr. Trist, has done me in his turn a favor. This much I will ask permission to do for him."

Calhoun's long and trembling fingers were nervously opening the document. He turned to her with eyes blazing with eagerness. "It is Oregon!" He dropped back into his chair.

"Yes," said Helena von Ritz slowly. "It is Oregon. It is bought and paid for. It is yours!"

Love and Matrimony

A Post-Dispatch Expert's Advice on Affairs of the Heart.
By BETTY VINCENT.

DO not write to me for advice, girls, telling me you are in love with two different men and that you do not know which one to choose.

Take, for example of what I mean, this letter from a girl who writes to me:

"Two men have been paying attention to me for some time, and I know they are both in love with me. But the puzzling part of it is, I believe I am in love with both of them. I like to see them equally well, and if either one does not call upon me as often as usual, I miss him, even though the other one is less remiss. They are both equally fine men, and I wish you would tell me some way of knowing which one to choose."

There is no choice in a case like this. The only thing for the girl to do is not to consider either suitor seriously. As long as she doubts which one she cares for she is not in love with either.

M. T. writes: I am engaged to a young man, but my friends say the business in which he is employed is a bad one and I ought to give him up. Shall I give him up or keep on with him? I have no other fault to find with him."

I do not see why you should give the young man up because of his business. As long as it is honorable and manly, that is all that matters.

Imagine the predicament of the girl who writes me this letter:

"I am engaged to marry a man who is very jealous. I have given up all my men friends gladly for him, but now he has become jealous of my girl chum. She has been so much to me for years I hate to give her up. What shall I do?"

If I were this girl I would refuse to give up my girl friends unless my fiancee could give me some really good reason why I should. Even though you love a person, it is not necessary to make foolish sacrifices for him.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN'S STORY OF HIS LIFE

(Copyright, 1910, by John L. Sullivan.)

CHAPTER XXIV.

ON the morning of Oct. 27, 1887, I boarded the Cunard liner Cephalonia and set sail for England. I was going abroad on a mission of money, glory and revenge. I wanted to get Charley Mitchell and Tug Wilson, and in addition to that I was after Jem Smith, who was then posing as the champion of England.

Harry S. Phillips, a well-known sporting man of Montreal, was my manager. Accompanying us was Jack Ashton, the Providence fighter, and Mr. John Barnett, a personal friend, who acted somewhat in the capacity of traveling companion, adviser and secretary.

That was a great day for me. I knew how much my friends thought of me. My cabin was literally lined with flowers and a committee of sporting men followed us out to sea in a special tug that they had engaged for the occasion. My father and brother saw me off at the pier, and the former waved me a last good-by with the colors that I wore when I won the championship from Paddy Ryan.

On the way over Jack Ashton got very ill from seasickness. His expression of disgust kept the passengers in a continual laugh. I have often laughed at one thing he said, and though I have heard it many times since, it never struck me so funny as the day Jack pulled it.

He was leaning over the rail "feeding the fishes" when Barnett and myself stopped near by and began to look out at the night.

"Has the moon come up yet?" I asked of Barnett.

"It hasn't," said Ashton, answering my question, "it will be here in a minute. Everything else has come up and is still coming." He was the sickest man I ever saw.

Greeted by Big Crowd.

WE ARRIVED in Liverpool on Nov. 6 at 2 o'clock. It was Sunday afternoon and there was an immense crowd on hand to greet me I was a little bit shy about entering this foreign country, but when I saw all those friendly faces I knew that somebody would be on hand to help me out of difficulties. Among those who greeted me at the pier was Arthur Magnus, Alf Greenfield and Johnny Curran.

As I stepped from the tender the crush was so great that I had difficulty in reaching a carriage. The crowd finally got so enthusiastic over the "American champion" that they started to take the horses from the carriage and pull me to the hotel themselves. The police interfered and stopped that and after considerable waiting I finally reached the hotel in safety.

I had the distinction over there of having interrupted the ordinary traffic both in Liverpool and London, and the police had to clear a way the same as they do when a city is being visited by members of the royal family.

It was a continuous ovation all the way from Liverpool to London and on many occasions the enthusiasts climbed on top of the railway carriage and had to be dislodged by the police. The climax was capped, however, when we reached Euston. The crush there was so great that it was impossible for me to reach my carriage that stood in waiting at a distance. I therefore jumped into the first carriage or vehicle that I saw. Then it seemed as if the whole town was trying to get in with me. So many pushed their way in that the bottom of the rig fell out and we all tumbled to the ground in one mass of flying legs and arms. When I got out of the tangle I discovered to my astonishment that the rig I had entered was a funeral coach.

Another carriage was quickly provided for me and in company with Harry Bull, better known as "Shippy Norton," I was driven to the office of the Sportsman on Fleet street. That is the biggest sporting paper in London.

Gives First Exhibition.

I MADE a speech from the windows of the newspaper office, in which I thanked the people and promised them that I would show them what I could do as a "knocker-out" before the end of the week. I gave an exhibition on the Wednesday night following and was introduced with Jem Smith, the champion of England.

The place was packed and the crowd immediately began to yell, "Speech! Speech!"

"I thank you," I said. "And all I've got to say is that here is one fellow that I came [illegible] here to lick," pointing to Jem [illegible]. They looked at me rather [illegible] as I said that, but I added:

"I want to lick him just as bad as he wants to lick me." My manager told me later that I should have said "I want to 'best' this man." They didn't appear to get the word "lick" at first.

As a rule I found the English people very courteous and kind to me, but there isn't much fun in them. They take the fighting game too seriously. You [illegible] hear funny stories over there about their fighters like we do in America. I can sit down with an old-timer in this country and we can talk for an hour of the humorous things that happened before and after fights. Over there they do not have that faculty somehow. I guess there is a lot of truth in that old-time idea that an Englishman is lacking in the sense of humor. He has his fun in a way, but the ridiculous things that appeal to us do not appeal to him.

For instance, I told the captain of one of [illegible] companies [illegible] who was [illegible] on the jaw and sprawled all over the floor for the count.

"Get up, you quitter," hissed his second. "Ain't you goin' to fight any more?"

"Oh, yes," said the fallen fighter, "I'm goin' to fight some more, but not tonight."

I thought I was getting away with a good one when I told that to the English Captain, but imagine my astonishment when he looked at me very seriously and said:

"I think he was quite right. Feeling that he had been rendered hors de combat it was most excellent judgment for him to decline to fight any further on that occasion. Undoubtedly he was simply biding his time."

Can you beat that?

Reception in Wales.

I WANTED to see a lot of the things in London that I had read about, but it was in that city that I discovered one of the difficulties of being famous. The people had got on to where I was stopping and every time I started down the street I was followed by a mob. I could not stroll along the streets and look at things as an ordinary American would like to do. Instead I had to ride in one of those little cabs to keep out of the public gaze.

We started on a trip around the country and one of the most interesting places I visited was Cardiff, Wales. There my reception was one of the most enthusiastic ever tendered a visitor.

"It is a somewhat noteworthy circumstance," remarked one of the papers, "that here in the very metropolis of good little Wales a prizefighter should prove a greater attraction than a truculent radical Prime Minister."

The Prime Minister referred to was Gladstone, and you can imagine that it was considerable satisfaction to me to know that as a drawing card I had put it over that famous Prime Minister of Great Britain.

"You don't attach much importance to the diamond belt in the possession of Jake Kilrain?" was asked of me in Cardiff.

"No," I replied. "It is only a dog collar given by the Police Gazette. Its real value is only about £30 ($150), and if I win it I intend to offer it for competition among the New York bootblacks."

I had little opportunity to meet all comers in Wales and England, because they wouldn't fight. I repeatedly issued the challenge, but the people over there were not as quick to take a chance as they had been in America. I did meet one fellow in Cardiff—Samuels, I think, was his name—but he didn't know much about the fighting game.

We sparred for a second and I unbelted one that caught him on the jaw and he went down for what looked like the count. He was not out, however, for he raised up and said:

"Quits! quits!"

I took that to mean that he had had enough, but it was the first time that I ever heard the expression used in a prize ring. It struck Ashton and myself as being very funny and we often used it in a kidding way while boxing with each other.

I am very glad to know that in late years Cardiff has turned out some good fighters. I always liked that place. The people are as hospitable as you will find anywhere in the world. They are just a little shy of being Irish at that. I guess that accounts for their good nature.

BILLIARDS

Hoffman and Cummings are scheduled to meet in the three-cushion billiard tournament match at the Grand Saturday night. The match Friday between Chopin and Graves resulted in a victory for the former, 30 to 19.

Moore and Wright will furnish the three-cushion billiard tourney contest at the Rex Saturday evening. Dr. Moore defeated Staley, 40 to 18, Friday.

Andrews and Wills were the winners in the 18.2 amateur balk-line matches at Peterson's hall Friday. Andrews won from Nivrap, 200 to 95, while Wills defeated Woodward, 200 to 112. Wells (50), 100; O'Connor (70), 90, and Kennamore (25), 100; Hoskins (25), 94, were the results of the newspaper men's tourney games Friday.

Burkett and Tice, representing the Merchants' Billiard Hall, defeated Arnold and Chariton of Pesch's hall in the final block of points of a three-cushion match played at the Merchants' Friday, 40 to 25, making the final total score 80 to 62 in favor of the Merchants' team.

Frank Keith defeated Carnish in the "Southpaw" pool tournament at the Royal rather easily Friday, 100 to 74. Keith made one run of 17.

INTERNATIONAL INTEREST IN THE JEFFRIES FIGHT

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The international interest which has been aroused by the Jeffries-Johnson fight, was a surprise to James Coffroth, the California promoter, who is hurrying coastward on his record-breaking trip from London to San Francisco.

"The Frenchmen are backing Jeffries to win, while most of the Englishmen think that Johnson is the best bet," said Coffroth before leaving New York.

"All the continental countries have gone daffy about fighting. Boxing clubs are being opened in almost every city in France, and throughout the southern part of Europe the game has taken on a wonderful popularity. I met hundreds of sportsmen on the other side who are coming over here just to see the big scrap."

McGovern Goes in Feature at Boxing Bouts

Benny McGovern and Eddie Stafford are expected to furnish the feature bout of the amateur boxing tournament to be held at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Saturday evening. McGovern and Stafford are scheduled to weigh in at 110 pounds. Stafford has been trying for a couple of years to get one of the local boys to meet him. He comes from the East and has appeared in many bouts.

Little McGovern is rated the best amateur in St. Louis today, but against the sturdy Stafford he will have to move faster than ever before to win.

John Sauter will meet Tim McCarthy in another bout that promises a lot of action. Sauter is much cleverer than McCarthy, but the latter has a tremendous punch, can take punishment and somehow has a get-there style that has won him quite a number of bouts.

Gus Bardol of the South Broadway A. C. and Eddie Randall of the Missouri A. C. will be the judges of the contests and Harry Sharpe will act as referee.

The full card follows:

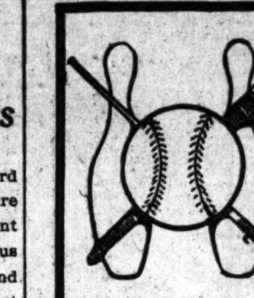

105 pounds—Ed. Meyers, B. M. G., vs. Jim Kenney, S. B. A. C.
110 pounds—Ed. Stafford, B. M. G., vs. Ben McGovern, M. A. C.
135 pounds—John Stanton, K. of C., vs. Will Holler, S. B. A. C.
128 pounds—John Shelton, St. Louis Gym., vs. Joe Farmer, unattached.
135 pounds—Tom Weakley, B. M. G., vs. Phil Gross, S. B. A. C.

HOPPE EASILY DEFEATS MORNINGSTAR AT PITTSBURG

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 5.—Willie Hoppe last night won his 1500-point match at 18.2 balk-line billiards with Ora Morningstar by the grand total score of 1500 to 1032. Hoppe's victory in running out his last block of 500 last night was the most decisive of any of the three nights' play. He did it in 10 innings, while Morningstar had only 225.

Block Signs Contract.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Jimmy Block of Milwaukee, recruited from the Minneapolis American Association team sent in his signed contract Friday to the Chicago American League Club headquarters with the information that he was going to fight hard for the catcher's berth. Rollen Barrows was another American League aspirant to send in a document bearing his signature. Barrows is a candidate for an outfield position and hails from Fall River, Mass.

WRAY'S COLUMN.

HOLD to him, Roger! Don't let him go!

Perhaps he'll give up another trade like that Beebe business if you insist. Work off Fensky and the program boy for Mitchell and McLean. Trade in Seekamp, for Hoblitzelle. Throw in Stanley's breeze arresters, if necessary.

But keep Clarke Griffith in the community!

If you can entertain him into another state of forgetfulness he may let go a near-champion team.

This conclusion comes advisedly. After wading through a few guides, news files and a bale of Cincinnati comment, the truth sifts out that Mr. Griffith has released one man who alone seems to be worth both the men St. Louis let go.

Why Clarkie! How Could You.

HE IS this lad, Oakes, and the more you look him over the more you wonder at Griffith—wonder, too, why Griffith did not trade, in his stead, the very man who replaced him on the team, last season—Paskert.

Oakes' figures are better in every respect, not only than those of Paskert of the Reds, but of every outfielder on the Cardinals, the redoubtable Ellis not excepted.

Mystery About Oakes.

THERE seems to be some little mystery about this trading of Oakes. Possibly all is not as it seems. Oakes may be dead sea fruit. Griff either knows something against Oakes, or he thinks more of Beebe than we in St. Louis do. The trade is virtually three men for Fred, as Alan Storke will not graduate in his law course until June, and may not report at all.

If there is nothing wrong with Oakes, it would seem that Griff would do much better to trade Paskert, although the latter's figures are good.

Here's the comparative dope on the men:

Batting.

	G.	AB.	R.	H.	2B.	3B.	HR.	Pct.
Oakes	67	415	55	112	10	5	3	.270
Paskert	88	322	49	81	7	4	0	.251

Fielding.

	G.	P.O.	A.	E.	TC.	Pct.
Oakes	67	218	15	5	238	.979
Paskert ..	88	172	11	6	189	.968

Stolen bases, Oakes 23, Paskert 23.

CONSIDERING the differences in the number of games played, this shows a superiority in every department. Oakes, according to the above figures, outran, outbatted, outthrew and outclassed his opponent. There is a remarkable difference in their field work, Oakes having handled 49 more chances than his rival, though playing 11 less games.

Now how on earth did Griffith conclude to trade Oakes in place of the other man?

Is it one on Griff? Perhaps, but he may have his laugh in his sleeve.

Huggins Long Looked For.

LITTLE MILLER HUGGINS is not "all in"—take that and remember it. In him the Cardinals have found what they have been after for years—a second baseman who can play. Huggins is the smartest little man on the second cushion that one would want to find. His averages seem puny, but then he was in the game for but a short time last year. Being in and out of the fray he was unable to keep his batting stride.

When he was in the game regularly, two years ago, he batted well up with the very best of the hitters and ran bases with speed to burn. As lead-off man for the Cardinals, he will get on the bases a world of times, for he is one of the hardest men to pitch to on the club.

Roger Almost Satisfied?

THAT batting order of the Cardinals will be something for any club to envy, in its upper story at least. Huggins will undoubtedly get a place at the top with Oakes, Hulswitt, Koney and Ellis trailing. It's a bunch that can do anything, from getting on base to sacrificing, stealing or doing the clean-up act with the club.

Roger is really to be congratulated on his infield, his outfield and his catching department.

If he can make good with the pitching staff, some of the weaker sisters of the league will have to retire.

Bresnahan Intends to use
HUGGINS ON SECOND BASE

Cardinals' Leader Says He Will Not Trade New Man to Brooklyn Club.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

MILLER HUGGINS will be the second baseman for the Cardinals this year, unless one of the two recruits, Bell or Magee, is good enough to beat the veteran infielder out of the job. This fact was established by a talk with Roger Bresnahan Friday evening. Roger stated that he had no intention of trading Huggins to Brooklyn, though he thought he could do so if he desired.

Until Johnny Evers came to the front, Miller Huggins was looked upon as the best second baseman in the National League. He was an allround player, hitter, base runner and fielder. But because a phenomenal young infielder, Egan, broke in with the Cincinnati Reds last spring, Huggins was actually crowded off the team. Egan would have displaced any second baseman in the League unless perhaps Evers or Larry Doyle, and his record tops the marks of these two.

So Miller Huggins was simply left out in the cold with the Reds, and it was said he was none too friendly with Clark Griffith, the clever leader.

Huggins Completes Infield.

"HUGGINS will complete our infield even if the youngsters don't make good," said Bresnahan. "He has not slowed up much. But that kid, Egan, is a wonderful young player and would have beaten any of them. Huggins will be all right with us and I expect to use him as the regular second baseman unless one of our recruits turns out to be such a fellow as Egan.

"I wanted Oakes all the time, but I started to dicker with Griffith for Paskert. When I found he was about willing to give up Paskert, I switched and held out for Oakes and it took a long time for "Griff" to let him go. He is going to be one of the great outfielders of the game. I could have had Pitcher Spade instead of Corridon, but I took the latter.

"Yes, I think it was a great trade, and helped the St. Louis club. But Cincinnati is satisfied also. Griffith wanted a pitcher like Beebe and feels now that his club is complete. He could afford to part with an outfielder and an infielder, because he has plenty of them in reserve. He has three great outfielders in Bescher, Mitchell and Paskert. It would mean that either Oakes or Paskert would be sitting on the bench, if he kept them all. Oakes is too good a man to be sitting on the bench and will probably be a regular on our club."

Roger announced that the Cardinals would start for Little Rock on March 1, a week later than the Browns. That will give him three full weeks of work right in the training camp and then the team will come back home for exhibition games with minor league clubs.

Hedges Down in Texas.

OWNER R. L. HEDGES of the Browns is now down in Texas arranging for hotel accommodations and railroad transportation for his squad of players. He is planning an extensive exhibition tour this spring, but it will be covered mostly on the way Dallas, after leaving the Houston camp, then stops three days at Oklahoma City, three days at Wichita, two days at St. Joe and finishes with a stop of two days at Kansas City.

Looks Upon Oakes as Coming Outfielder and Will Use Him as a Regular.

Swimmers of Chicago Here for Big Meet

Swimmers from the Illinois A. C. of Chicago will meet the M. A. C. paddlers in a dual aquatic meet at the Missouri A. C. Saturday night. Because of the fact that Harry Handy did not accompany the Windy City squad it is expected that the M. A. C. will surely win the meet. Handy is one of the best swimmers in the country.

Handy was unable to make the trip because of a bad cold. The Chicago men were due to arrive at 7:30 a. m., but were almost an hour late in reaching the club.

In a dual meet at Chicago recently the New Illinois A. C. men defeated the M. A. C. squad in a meet that causes a lot of talk and unfavorable comment. The discussion arose over the water polo game. Up to the water polo game the M. A. C. men were leading. The game resulted in a tie. It seems that the M. A. C. men were not notified that they would have to keep playing until the tie was broken until most of the boys had already put on their street clothes. When ordered to get back into the water and continue the game they refused. The result was that the game was awarded to the Chicago men, which also gave that team the meet.

The water polo game Saturday night is expected to be one of the best witnessed at the club in years because of the great rivalry between the two teams as the result of the Chicago mix-up.

BOWLING

Charley McClelland, rated one of the best tenpin bowlers in Kansas City, will come to St. Louis shortly for a series of games with the best of the local bowlers. In a letter to Al Jellison, McClelland wanted to know if the St. Louis tenpinners would be willing to bowl against him if he came to this city. Jellison immediately replied that he personally would be willing to bowl against McClelland in St. Louis for any amount of money that McClelland wished to wager, and he also guaranteed the Kansas City man matches with other St. Louisans. It is now up to McClelland to come to St. Louis. Jellison lost an individual match at Kansas City after the local bowlers had beaten the Kansas City men in a five-men team match for $1000.

The question of how old is Ann did not disturb the local tenpinners and their friends as much as the question as to who is to put up the money for the A. B. C. if it is held in this city next year. Buffalo is the only other city after the tournament. So far as the bowlers or bowling promoters in St. Louis are concerned, they have done practically nothing towards getting the A. B. C. for 1911. Fred Langenberg, "boss" of the Hyde Parks, seems the only man who is really anxious to get the tournament. Langenberg declares positively that if Buffalo gets the tournament next season he will not have his five make the trip to that place. The Hyde Parks never miss a city, State or national tournament, which makes it seem as though other teams in St. Louis might think the trip to Buffalo too far for them to make if that city is awarded the tourney.

Other matches bowled Friday night resulted as follows: Special match on Grand-Arsenal alleys, Binders 2, Cutters 1. Individual tourney on Rex alleys, Hayes 3, Keith 2; Hilker 3, Eisle 2. Palace Handicap League, on Palace alleys, Pirates 3, Maroons 0; McCormacks 3, Drews 0; Thumsers 2, Idlewilds 1; Hoppes 3, B[illegible]manns 0; American Centrals 2, Newlyweds 1; Old Capitols 2, Brasch's 1. Office M[illegible] League, on De Soto Pine alleys, De Sotos 3, Markhams 0; H. & K.'s 2, Peetz Bros. 1; Postoffice 2, Ideal Stars 1; Du Ponts [illegible] bash 1. Manufacturers' League, on De Soto Olive alleys, St. Louis H. & R.'s 2, Geller, Ward & Hasner 1; M. & O. 2, M., K. & T. 1. Business Men's Cocked Hat League, on the Royal alleys, Lafayettes 3, Fountains 2; Lyons 4, Towers 1.

KLING WRITES COMMISSION TO RAISE ITS BAN

Cubs' Great Catcher Blacklisted for Failure to Report, Last Season, Would Play Again.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 5.—Johnny Kling, star catcher of the Cubs, who failed to report for duty last year and is therefore supposed to be blacklisted for a term of years for breaking a National Commission rule, has appealed to the commission in writing for reinstatement.

Kling's letter was received here today and was addressed to Gerry Herrmann, president of the National Commission. It is believed the case will be taken up and passed upon by the leading baseball body during the present week.

Kling's offense consisted in failure to comply with the rule compelling all players to report to their clubs before May 1, or be subject to the penalty of black list. Kling and President Murphy of the Cubs, disagreed before the season opened last year, and Kling announced that he was through with baseball.

He was just launching a billiard hall in Kansas City and he needed more time to establish it before he could join his club. He said he would sacrifice his baseball interests rather than his business and held to his word.

However, Kling's status as a breaker of the National Commission rule is complicated by the indefinite leave of absence which President Murphy of the Cubs granted Kling, when he found he was persisting in his intention of quitting the game.

Of course this was but a subterfuge, but it will give the commission a loop hole to reinstate Kling, as it avoids a technical violation of the clause involved.

However, Kling is under sentence on another count which may be more serious. Kling took an independent team in major league territory, Chicago, against the will of the National Commission. It remains to be seen how this feature will be explained.

KANASAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 5.—John Kling, the catcher, this afternoon confirmed the report that he had applied to the National Baseball Commission for reinstatement.

"I may want to play ball again," said Kling, "and for that reason am getting in line. I have no plans to go with any particular club; simply want to pave the way in case I finally decide to play again."

Football Men Find No Way to Fix the Rules

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—A chaotic situation confronted the football experts in session here when they resumed their task of remodeling the rules of the game to make it safer and saner. A whole day's labor Friday served apparently but to increase the confusion, and multiplicity of ideas and their diversity proving a stumbling block in the way of immediate progress.

At the same time the labor of yesterday was found not to be wasted, and there was promise of light ahead through the gradual process of elimination which went on through Saturday's session.

It is believed that no positive settlement will result from the present session, but that with the tentative plan of changes now being mapped out in hand, the rule makers will take time to consult with the college authorities in their various sections. Out of these conferences is expected to come another meeting in March for definite action.

JIMMY CLABBY SURPRISES MIKE "TWIN" SULLIVAN

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 5.—Mike (Twin) Sullivan of Boston and Jimmy Clabby, welterweights, fought a 10-round, "no-decision" bout before the National Athletic Club of Milwaukee Friday night. Both men finished strong and the newspaper men decided the contest a draw.

Post-Dispatch's Complete Daily Record of Markets and Finance

TENDENCY STRONG TO BUY STOCKS AT PRESENT LEVELS

Pressure Is Applied to Prevent Resultant Advance From Going Far.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"So far as the course of prices today indicated anything very definite, it suggested a pretty strong tendency to buy stocks at present levels, offset by calculated efforts to prevent the resultant advance from going far. Advances of a point or more were sufficiently numerous in the early trading; then pressure seemed again to be applied to the market and fractional declines ensued.

"Volume of business was fairly large, especially on the early rise; but the market was at no time greatly animated. It was the kind of market in which 'short covering' of considerable magnitude could probably have been effected, and it is not to be forgotten that a professional 'bear' having bought back a portion of the stocks previously sold by him is apt under any circumstances to endeavor to stop the advance, in order to preserve his future opportunities. The market closed with moderate net advances distributed irregularly through the list.

"If anything were needed to add to the week's indications of an extraordinary state of things in Wall street, today's bank statement would provide it. In a week of convulsive stock exchange liquidation, and of wholesale lowering of prices, loans of the trust companies increase $11,000,000 while loans of the associated banks expand $14,000,000 on the average showing and $6,600,000 on the actual.

"There have been one or two rather large operations requiring capital this week, but they are hardly adequate to explain the showing. The only inference is that the process of repairing last autumn's objectionable condition of the market's loan account has been pursued again this week on a very extensive scale.

"The decrease of $11,000,000 in the actual cash holdings of the banks comes on the heels of estimates from the same institutions yesterday, showing $4,000,000 increase. This is a much more puzzling conundrum than the loan account. In the actual weekend bank return, the result is a $6,300,000 loss in surplus reserves. This leaves the surplus, however, still considerably above the usual showing of recent years at this date."

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S TRADING ON WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The opening dealings in stocks today saw a buoyant rise in prices over last night's closing level. The demand from uncovered shorts played a part in this result, which was foreshadowed by the previous rise in Americans in London. American Smelting rose 1¼, Denver & Rio Grande, American Locomotive and Consolidated Gas 1¼, Atchison and Union Pacific preferred 1 and a considerable list of active speculative stocks a large fraction.

Amalgamated Copper, American Smelting and Consolidated Gas reacted a point after the opening. The rest of the list was well sustained and later a vigorous rise in Reading and the Hill stocks carried the whole market up smartly. Great Northern preferred rose 1¾, the ore certificates 2, Northern Pacific 1¾, Reading 1½ and a score or more of other stocks a point or over.

The market closed rather easy.

Some profit taking sales met a renewed rise in prices and fractional recessions followed. Pullman sold at an advance of 4¾, Missouri Pacific 2½ and American Hide and Leather preferred 2. The reaction was checked while prices still ruled above yesterday's closing level.

SMALL TRADING IN SECURITIES ON STOCK MART

Commonwealth Trust and Bank of Commerce Monopolize the Business.

Commonwealth Trust and Bank of Commerce practically monopolized the trading at the single session of the St. Louis Stock Exchange Saturday. Securities of these institutions were in about equal demand, 85 shares of Commerce changing hands against 84 of Commonwealth. Outside of these transfers there was only one sale, 10 shares of Hydraulic Brick. Traders are inclined to act somewhat cautiously in view of the uncertain developments in the New York market. Quotations, generally, were about unchanged.

GENERAL BULL MOVEMENT IN COTTON SECURES GOOD GAINS

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The cotton market opened firm at an advance of 4@12 points, in response to the firm showing of the Liverpool market, the big Liverpool spot sales, the larger spot business reported late yesterday in Southern markets, claims of improved trade conditions generally and overnight buying orders.

Brokers who were among yesterday's prominent buyers sold considerable cotton during the first few minutes, evidently with the purpose of reducing lines at a profit, and there was some bear pressure, but after a reaction from 14.84 to 14.81 for May, the market stiffened up on a renewal of bull support and was firm during the middle of the morning at a net advance of about 11@16 points on the old crop months. The new crop was quiet but steady and about 4 to 5 points net lower.

The market closed steady, with prices net 5 to 22 points higher. The close:

MOTHER'S FRIEND

A LINIMENT FOR EXTERNAL USE.

Baby's coming will be a time of rejoicing, and not of apprehension and fear, if Mother's Friend is used by the expectant mother in preparation of the event. This is not a medicine to take internally, but a liniment to be applied to the body, to assist nature in the necessary physical changes of the system. Mother's Friend is composed of oils and medicines which prepare the muscles and tendons for the unusual strain, render the ligaments supple and elastic, aids in expanding the skin and flesh fibres, and strengthens all the membranes and tissues. It lessens the pain and danger at the crisis, and assures future health to the mother. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for our free book for expectant mothers.

THE BRADFIELD COMPANY, ATLANTA, GA.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKETS IN BRIEF

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Wheat showed an upward tendency in the early trading today after starting a shade lower to ⅛c higher. The controlling factor in the firmness was comparatively light receipts in the Northwest. In the first hour prices crept up generally ¼c and steadied there with May at $1.09½. Opening figures for May were $1.09¼ to $1.09½, a shade lower to ⅛@¼c higher.

Later in the session the market lost firmness and prices sagged from ⅛c to ½c, May dropping to $1.09. The close was weak at nearly the low point for the day, with May at $1.09¼@$1.09⅜ lower than yesterday's final figures.

The corn market continued weak throughout the session, the decline varying from ¼c to ⅝c. The close was at the low points with May at 65¾@65⅞c—⅝ lower than the final figures yesterday.

Oats were easy.

LIVESTOCK.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Feb. 5.—Comparative receipts:

	Today.	Week ago.	Year ago.
Cattle	800	1,000	800
Hogs	2,500	2,500	3,500
Sheep	300	200	....
Horses and mules	100	200	100

NATIVE CATTLE—The receipts of native cattle were about 400. A few odd natives were negotiated at steady prices. Receipts otherwise were made up of through consignments.

SOUTHERN CATTLE—The receipts of Southern cattle were about 400, mainly Arkansas stuff. There were three loads of Texas mixed cattle of ordinary quality. Market about steady on grown stuff and a shade lower on yearlings.

HOGS—The small supply of hogs that arrived today found a good active market with prices on a steady to strong basis. The top of the market was $8.60, the same as yesterday, while the bulk of the hogs sold from $8.35@8.50, showing a slight gain. The quality of the hogs was a little better today. All buyers were in the market and the packers purchased their share. Pigs and lights, if good, were ready sellers and steady to strong, but not a great many pigs and lights arrived.

SHEEP—Only a few sheep arrived and there was no material change to the market from the Friday basis, which was about 25c higher than the close of last week on all good fat offerings. Good to choice lambs are quotable at $8.25@8.50, yearlings $7.25@7.50, ewes $5.25@5.65, wethers up to $6.25, stockers $3@4, and bucks $4.50@5. Half ... offerings were slow sale.

HORSES AND MULES—Very little was doing in the horse and mule trade today. The usual week-end features prevailed. Only a few retail transactions were reported in the horse department, while a partial clearance of the holdover supply of mules in the commission department was made. Fresh receipts were limited.

WHEAT SLIGHTLY LOWER AT CLOSE

Prices Are Confined to Narrow Range, but Move Irregularly—Cables Relatively Steady.

The local wheat market was narrow and irregular Saturday. Trading was of small volume and lacked importance, with fluctuations restricted as to breadth. An unsettled tone prevailed, however, prices ranging from small net advances to moderate losses. During most of the session slightly easier levels were in force. The close was ⅛@⅜c to ¼c lower for the day.

Relatively steady cables were responsible for a firm opening. The Liverpool market was bearishly affected at the start by the previous day's decline in America, prospects of heavy world's shipments and cheaper cargo offerings. Prices there sold down, but rallied in response to a good demand from the Continent, firm prices there and an improved inquiry for parcels. Liverpool wheat closed ⅛d to ¼d lower, a firm response to our recession, and prices in most other European markets were somewhat higher.

Clear weather, with seasonable temperatures, has set in all over the belt. Some nervousness was felt in regard to possible cold weather, while the crop is so entirely unprotected, but no damage from this source has yet developed and crop reports were uniformly favorable. Climatic conditions continue favorable also for the movement of the grain.

Receipts, while still exceeding those of the corresponding period of last year, showed a marked reduction from the recent heavy run. Stocks are small and following the initial spurt of selling which met the firm opening, there was nervous covering among the shorts. The cash market was dull. The demand was fair, but there were comparatively few offerings, and prices, although showing a rather easy tone, remained at big premiums over the futures.

The market was very unsettled. Prices moved in an irregular range most of the morning, but toward the close settled down under an aggressive spurt of selling, to fractional declines.

May wheat opened ⅛c higher at $1.09⅞, declined to $1.09½@1.09⅝, rallied to $1.09⅝ and sold down to $1.09¼. July wheat opened ⅛c higher at 99⅜c and declined to 99c. September wheat opened ⅛c higher at 95⅛c and was offered down to 95@95⅛c.

ADVISES GIRLS IN SHOP TO LUNCH ON HAM SANDWICHES

Tuberculosis Society Lecturer Warns Pastries Nourish Dread Plague.

TABOOES DANCING

Don't Swap Chewing Gum and Avoid Tight Lacing, She Admonishes.

Mrs. Belle Tracy of 3917 Maffitt avenue, lecturer of the Municipal Tuberculosis Commission of St. Louis, is the only woman holding a similar position west of the Mississippi River, and is one of less than a dozen women engaged in like work in the United States. In the three weeks' service since her appointment she has talked to 562 working girls in St. Louis and 1760 schoolchildren on the effects of tuberculosis.

At noonday meetings Mrs. Tracy talks to the girls on the floor of the factory in which they work, immediately after lunch. She advises them to eat sandwiches instead of pastry for lunch, and explains the value of nourishing foods. She tells them to wear loose clothing and explains the evils of tight lacing. Ventilation in work places, recreation and exercise also is urged upon the young women, but they are warned against excessive dancing.

During school hours Mrs. Tracy visits schoolrooms by permission of the school authorities. To the little ones she issues a warning not to swap chewing gum, not to take bites from apples partly eaten by other children, and urges the use of individual drinking cups as a preventive of communicating tuberculosis from one to another. Ventilation and cleanliness is the keynote of her addresses to young and old.

Talks to Girls and Children.

Mrs. Tracy's work is confined to girls and children. She seeks to make the young folks understand the results of the dread disease and endeavors to upset the old fallacy that tuberculosis is hereditary. She tells them that consumption is communicable, preventable and curable if taken in hand in time. The people with whom the lecturer talks are invited to attend the tuberculosis exhibit, where by diagrams, pictures and literature the ravages of the disease can be checked by proper care in daily life.

For 10 years, Mrs. Tracy was a teacher in the public schools of St. Louis. She has been interested in charity and slum work many years, and is a grand officer in the Queen's Daughters of Missouri. In her charity missions she studied conditions which lead to tuberculosis and is considered an expert on its cause and prevention. She was appointed as lecturer by the St. Louis Commission of Tuberculosis Jan. 12.

The exhibit under Mrs. Tracy's control is movable, and now is located at 2502 North Fourteenth street. It will remain there until Feb. 20, and will then be taken to another section of the city. At times when Mrs. Tracy has no engagements with working girls or school children she addresses meetings of women in churches or social gatherings in the homes when invited.

Rules to Prevent Disease.

In explaining the prevention of tuberculosis, Mrs. Tracy gives the girls in factories certain rules tending to prevent the disease, and secures permission to post placards in the factories keeping the rules in sight of the workers. In several factories the managers, at Mrs. Tracy's request, have appointed certain workmen to care for the ventilation each week.

That her talks are doing good is shown by the questions asked of Mrs. Tracy by working girls at the close of her addresses when they ask about the care of those at home. In many instances the girls outline the home conditions, and ask the lecturer for advice concerning the betterment of them. Several times Mrs. Tracy has been granted additional time to complete her talk when the time for work had come and the girls were interested in the remarks.

That small children listen attentively was verified at one school. The day after Mrs. Tracy lectured, a teacher entered the room soon after adjournment at the noon hour and found several boys industriously pulling down the windows from the top. The teacher asked the reason.

"The lady told us to get plenty of fresh air, and you told us to do as she said, and we are doing it," was the reply.

NEW YORK FIREMEN PURSUE FLAMING WAGON UP BROADWAY

Fire Set to Peddler's Rags by Mischievous Boys Scorches Horse and He Bolts.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The members of Engine Company No. 83 never knew what "chasing a fire" really meant until last night when they answered a call from Broadway and 138th street. When the engine arrived on the spot the fire was at 135th street and was still going north.

"It's three blocks up," shouted a driver when they reached 141st street. It was overtaken at 147th street and extinguished.

The blaze was in a load of rags and paper on a peddler's wagon. Mischievous boys had touched a match to the load while the peddler was in a house. The horse alarmed by the flames scorching his tail had started driverless up Broadway.

WOMAN WHO IS CONVINCED AN AUTO IS SAFER THAN HORSE

JILTED HER AUTO FOR DOBBIN AND CAR KILLS HIM

"So long as the horse, Tommy, lives," remarked Mrs. Joseph Barada Widen to her friend, Mrs. Harry Prufrock, "I'll never want an automobile."

A half hour after this conversation, the faithful Tommy was struck by an Eighteenth street car while Mr. and Mrs. Widen and their little daughter rode in the barouche behind him, and was so injured that he had to be destroyed forthwith. The family rode home in a taxicab.

"I'm looking for a good auto," remarked Mr. Widen to a Post-Dispatch reporter Saturday, as he told of the accident at his home, 4647 Berlin avenue. Mrs. Widen was confined to her bed by the shock the evening before, though none of the family suffered any serious bodily injury..

"Mrs. Widen," her husband continued, "was one of the first women in St. Louis to own an electric coupe, but the first electric coupes were not very satisfactory and we got rid of hers and bought an automobile. The auto cut a Forest Park bench in two and tried to climb a tree, and we sold what was left of it. We bought a horse and he got frightened at an auto and threw Mrs. Widen out of her carriage near the Forest Park bird cage and dragged her so that she was in bed for weeks.

"Then we got Tommy, and he was such a good horse that we decided we didn't care to experiment any more, Mrs. Widen saying so to Mrs. Prufrock just before we started out last evening."

The Widen barouche was being driven out Chestnut street by William Bettis, the family coachman, when the car struck the horse at the Eighteenth street crossing at 5:30 p. m. Friday. The vehicle was knocked from the north to the south side of the pavement. None of the occupants was thrown out. The shafts were broken and the animal's side was crushed.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS ACCUSED OF EATING THEIR LUNCHEONS IN TERRE HAUTE WINE ROOMS

Grand Jury Will Investigate Story That Young Misses Drink Whisky.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Feb. 5.—The City School Board adopted a resolution asking Judge Fortune of the Circuit Court to instruct the grand jury to investigate a story printed in a weekly paper charging that girls from the High School have gone to winerooms at the noon hour and "returned with liquor breaths." The board says that it is against the law to maintain a wineroom and against the law to sell to minors but beyond the legal question is the fact that if the story is true the affairs of the High School need a thorough overhauling.

The article was over the name of Susan W. Ball, who has been prominent as a writer for the "Woman's World," and in the social life of the city. There has been a controversy over the building of an addition to the present High School or building a second school and what she wrote was to show the bad environment of the school as now situated.

"Some students had to bring their luncheon," she said, "and no supervision was provided for them at the noon hour The girls saunter out to see and be seen. With a large contingent this results in nothing more than having a good time in an innocent manner. But there is always the girl with the adventurous strain.

"It has been found that some of these girls have been taken to winerooms, returning to school with unmistakable liquor breaths. We often hear hinted that there are dreadful goings-on at the Wiley High School. No doubt these reports are exaggerated, but that girls have gone to winerooms during the noon hour can be proved."

SAD STATE SHE WAS IN

Mrs. G. H. Smith, of Abbottsburg, in a Sad State. Has Written She Almost Wanted to Die. Now Feeling Better.

"I suffered greatly, at intervals," writes Mrs. G. H. Smith, of this place, and have done so at times, ever since I was fifteen years old.

"At one time my suffering was so great I almost wanted to die, and when my baby came I was very sick for twelve long hours. I thought sure I would die and my baby did die. So I decided to take Cardui.

"The first bottle did me so much good that I have used it ever since. Now I have three fine babies, and am never sick over three hours since I began to take Cardui."—Abbottsburg, N. C.

At all times of pain and weakness, you should take Cardui, to help revive your flagging forces, drive away the pain, and restore the balance of true health.

When the health part of the scale is too light in the balance, a little Cardui will soon tip the beam the right way.

The reason is, that it is a specific remedy, prepared to assist the proper working of the organs—while experience shows that it is successful, and has been so for over 50 years.

Pure, strictly vegetable, perfectly harmless, Cardui is an ideal remedy for delicate, ailing women.

19 WON BY EYES OF COUNT, BUT HE CLAIMS ONLY ONE

Emil Carl von Mueller Denies He Used Title to Win His Wives.

ADMITS HE WED TWO

Erstwhile Baron's Honeymoon Is Disrupted by Nuptial Chorus.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Count Emil Carl Von Mueller—he says it's plain Carl Vonderhagen, but at least nineteen women know him as Count or Baron Emil—sat in his cell in the Hudson County (N. J.) Jail this morning and denounced an untoward fate which has hooked him up with a bigamy charge.

Emil gets all worked up over the accusation that 19 women in this country claim he married or plighted troth with them.

"There is only one—and she is adorable!" Emil exclaimed gallantly. The "adorable" one is Miss Pearl Wood Powers, stepdaughter of a wealthy Los Angeles (Cal.) man, whom he left behind when detectives arrested him Jan. 14, and after an extradition tilt, brought him to Hoboken, where he arrived Thursday night.

The much-marrying Bavarian is six feet in height and lanky. His complexion is sandy to reddish, a color scheme which runs into what little hair there is left on his ample pate. His broad shoulders, long arms, big hands and feet and long legs suggest big bones. His is the kind of form that doesn't set off clothes well. Then, where is the charm?

His Eyes Are the Charm.

Emil's eyes! They are cerulean, or baby blue, according to how the woman sees them. They kindle or fade behind a pair of big, round, gold-rimmed glasses, with the bows hooked behind a pair of somewhat lopping ears. If a harsh word is said, the eyes respond with almost pathetic reproach. When Emil speaks, the eyes are alight with what looks like 18-karat sincerity.

They seem to throw their spell around his iron-work stature, softening the angles, obliterating the bald head, tucking back the lopping ears and softening the hard hands. But there is a slight mote in Emil's eyes. It can be detected when he converses on some subject that is distasteful. It unmasks itself in a shrewd twinkle, which indicated that Emil is always "on the job."

When photographed at Hoboken Police Headquarters, tattoo marks were seen on one arm. There was a triangle surmounted by a crown and above it the motto: "Gott Mit Uns" (God with us). This was the emblem of his family, Emil said.

Another tattooing displayed a hammer, trowel and square with the letters "J. H. 1893." The emblem is of a secret society made up of those of gentle blood, Emil explained.

Story of His Life.

This is what Emil tells of himself:

"When I came to this country from Bavaria I had $50,000 and invested it in a real estate venture in New York. I lost nearly $30,000 here. It is a swindling country and that is why I am in my present trouble. I could have wooed and won many of the ladies of Fifth avenue, but I would not.

"I am an officer in the German army and also a graduated physician. I did not introduce myself as a count or baron. People gave me the title, that is all. In fact, my family is of noble lineage and I merit a title, but it pleased me better to be known as plain Emil Carl Vonderhagen."

The prisoner declared vehemently that his only legal wife is the woman he married in Los Angeles and who has announced her intention of having her marriage annulled. Of the half dozen women in and around New York who advanced claims to Emil's name, none appeared to greet him yesterday. Opportunity to identify him will be had when the Public Prosecutor of Hudson County calls his case. The date has not been fixed.

Attempted to Escape.

It is alleged that the last of Emil's matrimonial adventures hereabouts was with Miss Regina Veihelmann, 2051 Third avenue, with whom he went to Hoboken Oct. 18, 1908, and was married, and whom he is charged with deserting March 22, 1909.

Describing Von Mueller's Los Angeles bride, Detective Weinthal, who accompanied Emil across the continent, says:

"She is a lovely woman. Once after he was locked up, she called on him in his cell and demanded to know the truth. Two hours later his trunks arrived at the jail and he was formally declared an outcast from the $15,000 home the woman's stepfather had provided. He told me on our way East that he thought he could 'beat' the Hoboken marriage with Miss Veihelmann, because neither was a resident of New Jersey and he had failed to secure a proper license."

Detectives Weinthal and McDonald tell of an effort made by Von Mueller to escape while en route from Los Angeles. He obtained permission to go into a wash room in a Nebraska station, leaped out of a window and was captured after a chase of a quarter of a mile.

Charged With Wife Murder.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 5.—A formal charge of murder has been placed against Jesse A. Van Zandt, husband of the woman whose body, burned to a crisp over a gas stove, was found in their home last Saturday.

ARCHITECT SUES GIRL WHO JILTED HIM FOR $25,000

Poughkeepsie Belle Pays No Attention to Action by Spokane Resident.

NO RIVAL IS NAMED

Wedding Postponed Twice, Once Because Girl Said She Was "Afraid."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 5.—Miss Elizabeth Kelly, a prominent society girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kelly, of 11 Garfield place, has been served with papers in a breach of promise suit for $25,000 damages instituted by Leicester M. Pond, a young architect of Spokane, Wash.

As yet no answer has been returned and so far as can be learned neither Miss Kelly nor her parents have taken legal counsel. It was stated by friends of the family today that they probably will take no notice whatever of the proceedings.

The reason given for breaking the engagement and generally credited, was that Miss Kelly, who has always been very much attached to her mother, was unwilling to go so far away as Spokane to live.

Miss Kelly's engagement to any man other than Pond has never been announced.

Miss Kelly has been prominent in society since her debut about five years ago after her graduation from Lyndon Hall school. Her mother inherited $250,000 from her uncle, William W. Cornell.

Wedding Day Once Set.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPOKANE, Wash., Feb. 5.—Leicester Pond, in an interview with a Post-Dispatch correspondent said;

"I became engaged to Miss Kelly, who, by the way, is a grandniece of Alonzo B. Cornell, founder of the university, a year ago last June, and we were to be married in a year. The engagement was announced in the newspapers in April, 1909, with due formality and the date of the wedding was fixed for June 22.

"When I reached Poughkeepsie the regatta season was at its height and I found preparations made for an elaborate wedding. The Kelly house was full of bridemaids, friends and relatives. So I was surprised, to put it mildly, when Miss Kelly called me aside and told me she would like to have the wedding postponed from Thursday until the following Monday.

"She had been worn out by social affairs, she said, and was near a nervous breakdown. I consented. On Monday we planned to be married and were about to take the train when Miss Kelly again asked a postponement. She was just afraid to be married, she said, and wanted the wedding put off until October, for she wanted to stay in the East long enough to get the fall styles.

"Nothing was said about any other man and I came back to Spokane rather curious, especially as I had heard gossip in Poughkeepsie that made we wonder.

"When I got back I found that she had wired me before I left in June, asking me not to come. Pretty soon there came a letter full of remorse. Miss Kelly said she was sorry that she acted as she did. A few weeks later another letter came, breaking off the engagement. It was very brief. Miss Kelly said she had found she did not love me as she had once believed, and that was all."

HITCHCOCK, OUT TO FILL THE BARREL, SNARES PERKINS

Morgan's Partner Is Closeted With Taft for an Hour.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—When Postmaster-General Hitchcock got back from New York Thursday night, where he had gone after a campaign fund for the coming congressional election, he brought with him a man who heretofore has been a nifty individual in the collection of such funds when they are needed. The guest was George W. Perkins of New York, junior partner of J. Pierpont Morgan.

Mr. Perkins visited the White House. He saw Secretary Carpenter. Later in the day he came back, this time with his dinner host, Mr. Hitchcock, who before he was Postmaster-General was the titular head of the Republican National Committee, but who now worries along in the same capacity without the title. Ex-Gov. Hill of Maine is the chairman, but he has not been doing much chairmanizing.

With President an Hour.

Mr. Perkins spent an hour with President Taft. Mr. Hitchcock said Mr. Perkins had called to "pay his respects."

"Did you talk about the campaign fund?" he was asked.

"No, I wouldn't mislead you," answered Mr. Hitchcock. He said that he was not going back to New York. As this had been his program, his remark naturally led to the inference that there was no need of going back to New York to look for a campaign fund. Emphasis to the inference was given when Mr. Hitchcock said that Mr. Perkins was going back to New York tonight.

Mr. Perkins while here ventured the following idea:

"I see a great deal about the Republican party redeeming its campaign promises. One of these pledges was to pass a federal incorporation law. Such a law should be passed. Is Congress going to pass it?

Incorporation Bill Ready.

"A law of this kind would do much toward saving important business organizations from the dangers of frequent rumors that they are going to be proceeded against as violating the Sherman antitrust act."

The Federal incorporation bill was completed by the Attorney-General yesterday, and copies were sent to Senator Clark of the Senate Judiciary Committee and Richard Wayne Parker, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee. These gentlemen will introduce the administration bill in the two houses next Monday.

Among the callers at the White House was Milton D. Alles. Mr. Alles represents the Morgan interest in the Riggs National Bank, the biggest financial interest in the capital.

KILLS ACTRESS AND HIMSELF

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Because she went to a roller-skating masquerade ball Thursday night, Ethel Bernard, 22 years old, of 38 West Ninety-eighth street, an actress, was shot and killed by William T. Fisher of the same address.

Fisher, after shooting the actress, shot himself. Both died in the J. Hood Wright Hospital.

Pimply People Bothered With Boils

Should Use Stuart's Calcium Wafers to Rid Themselves Of These Annoyances.

A Trial Package Free

Your blood is badly out of order, otherwise you would not have those unsightly pimples, painful boils, beauty destroying blotches, eczema and eruptions that are a constant source of annoyance and mortification to yourself. They vex and give you pain and no one but yourself knows what a source of unhappiness they are. So far as you are able you have concealed your trouble with powder and wash, but these were no good; your trouble was there all the same, only a little more aggravated by what you had attempted to do. There is no use in the world doing this sort of thing; the truth of it is a serious matter and requires serious attention, not palliative, nor neglect. You must go right to the very source of the trouble and then something tangible and satisfactory can be done, and some good results realized.

The blood must be seen to. Wherever that goes, it distributes to the different parts of the body whatever it carries. In other words, it peddles whatever is in its pack. If it contains good wares all well and good; if it holds pernicious wares, then all is bad. It is a constant distributor of health or disease, and it stands to reason that it must be seen to that its pack is made up of the proper stuffs. In your case there is poison in the pack as evidenced by your skin trouble, the pimples on your face and the boils on your body.

To counteract this bad condition of the blood, it needs what STUART'S CALCIUM WAFERS supplies,—and when the wafers have begun their internal work the surface of the body will resent the presence of these unnatural and foreign exhibitions, and will rid itself promptly and completely of them. The work will be a thorough one and no pretending or veneering. The Calcium Wafers regenerate the blood; make a vigorous and successful attack on the cause of the trouble; storm the fort as it were and in a hundred thousand battles for physical betterment they have come off victorious and with colors flying.

We offer a test of these wafers in our free sample; not a cure understand; we do not claim for them such potency that a sample can effect a cure, but if we were afraid that they would not accomplish what we claim they will if properly used, this offer of a free sample would not be made. This offer of ours amounts to almost a guarantee of their efficiency and virtue. Every druggist carries them in stock; you can get a good supply or a box at a time; they are not like a liquid which may lose its strength with long standing or when the bottle is carelessly left uncorked. The wafers will cost you 50 cents a box. This is only a reasonable charge made for them and is the same all over this country. They make an appeal to good, common, sound sense and need no "bosh" of high-sounding names to make their merits known, or conceal what they lack. For the trial package address F. A. COUPLE SOLVE HIGH COST OF LIVING BY SELLING FARM TO SON FOR THEIR FOOD FOR LIFE

Peculiar Deed Calls for $6000 Cash Payment, Names Supplies to Be Furnished.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Otto Meyer and his wife, Mary, have solved the problem attending the high cost of living, as far as they are concerned. They have lived for years on a 30-acre farm near the village of Riverside, Cook County.

By a deed filed in the Recorder's office yesterday Meyer, for a consideration of $6000 in cash, conveys to his son, Frits H. Meyer, the farm. But, in return for this, the elder Meyer is to be furnished with all the necessities of life, including a house, regardless of the market price as long as he or his wife live.

A part of this unique deed reads as follows:

"The grantee is to provide a sufficient supply of fruit, a sufficient supply of vegetables of all kinds to be delivered on demand, one dressed hog of 200 pounds weight, one forequarter of fresh beef, to be delivered on Dec. 15 in each year; one half dozen fat ducks, one half dozen fat roosters, dressed, to be delivered Nov. 1 of each year, and three barrels of best quality of wheat flour, to be delivered, one barrel each time, on Jan. 1, May 1 and Sept. 1 of each year; 20 bushels of good eatable potatoes, to be delivered on demand; two pounds of fresh butter each week, one dozen fresh eggs each week, one quart of fresh milk each day, except each Saturday one-half gallon of fresh milk, and $40 in cash, $20 on March 1 and $20 on July 1 in each year."

M'KINLEY IS OUT HUSTLING AFTER CAMPAIGN FUNDS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Congressman William B. McKinley of Illinois is in New England today as a bill collector. His trip is not one for ordinary speech-making, but nevertheless it calls for the utmost of his oratorical ability.

He is trying to persuade the New England manufacturers that they owe something to the Republicans for the benefit they are deriving from the Payne tariff schedule and that the bill is due. His co-worker on this commission is Postmaster General Hitchcock, who is in New York trying to make Wall street "come across."

Congressman McKinley is arguing that President Taft is not the enemy Congress by a long shot and inasmuch as the congressional elections are drawing near, the "interests" will have to bear the expense of a stand-pat campaign if the Payne tariff is to be upheld.

McKinley, who is chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, has escaped the criticism that has been leveled at Hitchcock. The latter ostensibly quit the job of chairman of the national committee when he entered the cabinet and Gov. Hill of Maine superceded him. Hill, however, has been in Europe most of the time and the work, which is now called his "pernicious activity," devolved upon Hitchcock.

S.S.S. CURES BLOOD POISON

Removing the outward symptoms is not all that is necessary to cure Contagious Blood Poison. The virulent germs which produce these external manifestations must be completely driven from the blood before a real cure can be effected. The least taint left in the circulation will sooner or later cause a fresh outbreak of the trouble, with all its hideous symptoms of ulcerated mouth and throat, copper-colored spots, falling hair, sores and ulcers, etc. Only a blood purifier can cure Contagious Blood Poison. Medicines which merely check the symptoms for a time, because of their strong mineral nature, and leave the poison smouldering in the system, have brought disappointment to thousands. The disease always returns after such treatment. S. S. S. cures Contagious Blood Poison and cures it permanently. It goes into the blood, and removes every particle of the poison, making the circulation pure, rich and healthy, nor does S. S. S. leave the slightest trace of the disease for future outbreaks. S. S. S. does not contain any mineral ingredient, but is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, which are most valuable in their blood-purifying properties, and at the same time specifically adapted to building up the entire system. If you have Contagious Blood Poison S. S. S. will cure you because it will thoroughly purify your Blood. Home Treatment Book and any medical advice free to all

Stock and 4% Convertible Bonds—American Telephone and Telegraph Company

Aside from owning and directly operating all the long distance and toll lines, the great work (and substantially the entire expense) of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company is the administration of the affairs common to all its subsidiary companies. These comprise all the operating Bell Telephone Companies in the United States and Canada, including also the Western Electric Co. These it controls by a majority stock interest. At one expense—with one effort, it solves a problem—perfects a system—tests, and adopts or rejects an invention or innovation; and the result serves for all its companies. Thereby it economizes time, effort, labor and expense, and preserves harmonious uniformity of construction, equipment and operation throughout the united Bell System.

The Astonishing Growth Due to This Centralized Administration is best shown by comparing figures from the annual report of January 1st, 1909 with 1900, just prior to the acquirement of the business and property of the various Bell Telephone Companies.

Jan. 1	Exchanges	Subscribers	Miles of Wire	Bell Earnings for Year
1909	5,043	3,215,245	8,098,679	(1908) $18,121,707
GAIN	2,617	2,582,299	7,081,902	$12,635,649

During the past 27 years, dividends have never been less than 7½ % (for 1906-7-8-9 they have been 8%). Since the American Telephone & Telegraph Company acquired the Bell Companies, it has never earned less than three times its fixed charges. Both the Stock and 4% Convertible Bonds are listed on the Stock Exchanges of Chicago, New York, Boston, Philadelphia and London, affording a broad and convenient market. The Company's policy of issuing new stock to stockholders at par—so valuable in the past—promises even greater future value. We recommend these securities for investment and solicit purchasing orders. Small orders given equal attention with larger.
